Independent Thinking on Emotional Literacy Richard Evans, 2020-11-10 Written by Richard Evans Independent Thinking on Emotional Literacy A passport to increased confidence engagement and learning shares an approach that will help educators boost their pupils emotional literacy with the broader aim of nurturing a more grounded engaged and intrinsically motivated child Foreword by Ian Gilbert Do teachers truly understand their pupils And do the pupils themselves really understand their own needs In Independent Thinking on Emotional Literacy Richard Evans reminds every school educator that behind every child is a set of circumstances so entwined and within them a set of emotions so involved that to ignore them is to be complicit in any educational failings experienced by that child Richard equips educators with a collaborative passport template designed to improve pupils emotional literacy and promote discussion of the often unspoken issues that prevent children from making progress at school It enables staff to steer young people to greater emotional understanding of themselves so that they can better manage their route through the school system Furthermore Richard provides a detailed tutorial as he walks you through the subtleties and wide ranging possibilities of its use Colour copies of the passport are also made available for free download as a complimentary feature of the book If the passport is aimed at anyone adult or child it s those not altogether happy with the system those not convinced it provides as much breadth and meaning as it could and who sense that education is as much about the acquisition of self knowledge as it is about that of knowledge per se Ultimately the result of the enterprise is deeper understanding whether it s of the girl who falls asleep at the back the boy who needs constant support or those pupils who need extra careful attention at parents evening Suitable for all educators in both primary and secondary settings

Food and Cooking Skills Education Anita Tull, 2018-01-29 Food and Cooking Skills Education FCSE is a complex mix of policy and practicality educational theory and pedagogy classroom and government policy This book shows how FCSE has been at the centre of a tussle between education and policy for decades It reviews how FCSE has grappled with various significant issues of concern that threaten to marginalise it and pose problems for educational practicalities as expectations are increased but resources are squeezed It assesses the debate about the significance and importance of acquiring practical food and cooking skills in a society where the purchase of ready made food has become commonplace and public knowledge of where our food comes from is noticeably lacking This has contributed to the escalating incidence of diet related diseases and the attendant cost to society and threatened environmental sustainability In turn governments have reacted by proposals to make practical cooking skills a statutory National Curriculum subject as part of the armoury for tackling such costs Based on detailed research conducted across England and Wales as well as comparisons with thirty five other countries or states the author makes recommendations for policy to manage this challenge facing contemporary society

Educational Choices, Transitions and Aspirations in Europe Aina Tarabini, Nicola Ingram, 2018-06-13 Educational Choices Transitions and Aspirations in Europe analyses educational choices and transitions in eight different European countries regions and provides an engaging means of considering issues of inequality through international comparisons The book is underpinned by explorations of theoretical perspectives and methodological approaches which share the common goal of highlighting and challenging educational inequalities in relation to political imaginings and discursive constructions of notions of aspirations and choice Beginning with an overview of the theoretical landscape the book posits ways of understanding transitional experiences through both a social and a political lens Comprising of chapters that explore these issues within the context of specific countries and at different stages of young people s transitions the collection examines the features of different European education systems and how they frame transitions and choices before providing an overall analysis of systemic institutional and subjective constraints on these processes The book uniquely opens and develops an intellectual conversation about different education systems with similar educational challenges and outcomes Assimilating key issues and solutions this volume also makes general recommendations for policy and practice that would help to promote greater equity and social justice The book covers a range of transition points and countries which should make it essential reading for academics researchers and postgraduate students with an interest in international perspectives on education It will be particularly useful for those working in education sociology social policy geography and politics
