Web-Based Learning in K-12 Classrooms Jay Blanchard, James Marshall, 2013-10-23 Make sure your students get the most from their online learning experiences. Even though nearly every K-12 public school in the United States has broadband Internet access, the Web's vast potential as a teaching and learning tool has still not been realized. Web-based learning opportunities have been expensive, slow to develop, and time consuming to implement, despite pressure on schools to adopt technology solutions that will cure their educational ills. Web-Based Learning in K-12 Classrooms: Opportunities and Challenges chronicles the up and downs of online learning and offers unique insights into its future, providing a comprehensive curriculum-wide treatment of K-12 content areas: reading, science, mathematics, social studies, special education, counseling, virtual schools, exemplary schools, implementation issues, and educational Web sites. The Internet represents a powerful, complex set of technologies that offers your students access to unlimited knowledge, but that access doesn't replace the human interactions found in classrooms. Placing a student in front of a computer monitor is a supplement to classroom learning, not a substitute for it. Academics and education professionals address questions surrounding the key issues involved in successfully incorporating the wide range of Web-based learning opportunities: formal courses, demonstrations, simulations, collaborations, searches into the classroom, including technology content and implementation. Web-Based Learning in K-12 Classrooms examines inquiry-based learning
