

WRITING A MOVIE COMPARISON

What is a Movie Comparison?

Movie comparison essays frequently analyze and contrast two movies' images, dialogue, and character interactions, analyzing how these aspects affect the story and subject. The goal of the comparison is to highlight minor differences or unexpected similarities rather than to express the obvious.

All stories, according to Irish playwright Denis Johnston, are built around the same eight plots. If his hypothesis is correct, whether they use the same source material or original screenplays, directors frequently make films with similar stories that are significantly different from one another.

How to write a Movie Comparison?

1. Brainstorm in Circles

Before drafting your essay, brainstorming works best with a Venn diagram, which consists of two overlapping circles. After giving each circle a movie title, note the similarities between the circles' overlapped areas and the differences between the circles' outer regions. For instance, the concepts of infiltrating and altering a dream world are both present in the movies "Inception" and "Paprika."

2. Focus on Relevance

Focus your ideas on three subjects that are connected but different. Sort them into groups based on key components of a movie, such as storyline (the actions in the movie), cinematography (the visuals in the movie), character (including personality traits and depiction), diegesis (the setting in the movie), and theme (the overall message of the film). Streamline your choice to three relevant areas.

3. The Body

You can approach structuring the body of the essay in one of two ways, depending on the themes you chose to cover and the essay's length. According to the three criteria, you would discuss each movie independently in the first approach. The second approach examines the similarities and differences between the films on each of the three areas by analyzing each in turn. Indicate the connection between the current topic and the previous one before moving on. Examine how each of the three subjects relates to or affects the individual themes of the movies, highlighting any parallels and distinctions as necessary.

4. Conclusion

Typically, writing might assist you in improving or changing your main thesis. The introduction should draw the reader in, provide a summary of your case, and contain a thesis statement that encapsulates the significance of each of your primary points. The conclusion should summarize the body of the essay and paraphrase the thesis with a sense of closure and authority.

Literature And Film Comparison Essay:

Analyzing Literature-to-Film Adaptations Mary H. Snyder, 2011-01-20 The majority of scholarly treatments for film adaptation are put forth by experts on film and film analysis thus with the focus being on film Analyzing Literature to Film Adaptations looks at film adaptation from a fresh perspective that of writer or creator of literary fiction In her book Snyder explores both literature and film as separate entities detailing the analytical process of interpreting novels and short stories as well as films She then introduces a means to analyzing literature to film adaptations drawing from the concept of intertextual comparison Snyder writes not only from the perspective of a fiction writer but also as an instructor of writing literature and film adaptation She employs the use of specific film adaptations Frankenstein Children of Men Away from Her to show the analytical process put into practice Her approach to film adaptation is designed for students just beginning their academic journey but also for those students well on their way The book also is written for high school and college instructors who teach film adaptations in the classroom

The History of British Literature on Film, 1895-2015 Greg M. Colón Semenza, Bob Hasenfratz, Robert J. Hasenfratz, 2017-01-26 From The Death of Nancy Sykes 1897 to The Hobbit The Battle of the Five Armies 2014 and beyond cinematic adaptations of British literature participate in a complex and fascinating history The History of British Literature on Film 1895 2015 is the only comprehensive narration of cinema s 100 year old love affair with British literature Unlike previous studies of literature and film which tend to privilege particular authors such as Shakespeare and Jane Austen or particular texts such as Frankenstein or particular literary periods such as Medieval this volume considers the multiple functions of filmed British literature as a cinematic subject in its own right one reflecting the specific political and aesthetic priorities of different national and historical cinemas In what ways has the British literary canon authorized and influenced the history and aesthetics of film and in what ways has filmed British literature both affirmed and challenged the very idea of literary canonicity Seeking to answer these and other key questions this indispensable study shows how these adaptations emerged from and continue to shape the social artistic and commercial aspects of film history

Writing in Film Studies, from Professional Practice to Practical Pedagogy Bryan Mead, 2024-01-09 A common refrain heard from instructors in offices across the world is that students have a hard time producing quality written discourse This is no different in the world of film studies where many undergraduate students struggle to cogently discuss the films they watch in class How can film instructors help students become better writers This book answers this question by first uncovering the disciplinary expectations we have for students and then offering strategies to explicitly teach those expectations in the classroom This book examines and identifies the disciplinary conventions of professional film studies discourse along with the expectations we have for student writing in undergraduate film courses What becomes clear from this analysis is that the pedagogical expectations we have for students are aligned with and shaped by professional writing in the discipline It helps to uncover the argument types instructors take for granted and helps those teaching undergraduate students not only to know what those expectations are but also how to use that knowledge to foster better student writing Teaching Literary Theory Using Film Adaptations Kathleen L. Brown, 2009-03-12 This volume introduces ways to use film to ease the difficulty of introducing complex literary theories to students. By coupling works of literature with attendant films and with critical essays, the author provides instructors with accessible avenues for encouraging classroom discussion. Literary theories covered in depth are psychoanalytic criticism, The Awakening, and film adaptations The End of August and Grand Isle; cultural criticism, A Streetcar Named Desire and its 1951 film version; and thematic criticism, Ode to Intimations of Immortality from Recollections of Early Childhood and the film adaptation Splendor in the Grass. Other theories are used to clarify and support those referred to above. The work then includes a survey of the image patterns into which film adaptation theories can be grouped and how these theories relate to traditional literary theory.

Realist film theory and cinema Ian Aitken, 2019-01-04 Realist film theory and cinema embraces studies of cinematic realism and 19th-century tradition; the realist film theories of Lukács, Grierson, Bazin, and Kracauer; and the relationship of realist film theory to the general field of film theory and philosophy. This is the first book to attempt a rigorous and systematic application of realist film theory to the analysis of particular films. The book suggests new ways forward for a new series of studies in cinematic realism and for a new form of film theory based on realism It stresses the importance of the question of realism both in film studies and in contemporary life Aitken s work will be of interest to scholars and advanced students of film studies literary studies media studies cultural studies and philosophy Literature for Young Adults Joan L. Knickerbocker, 2017-03-15 Young adults are actively looking for anything that connects them with the changes happening in their lives and the books discussed throughout Literature for Young Adults have the potential to make that connection and motivate them to read It explores a great variety of works genres and formats but it places special emphasis on contemporary works whose nontraditional themes protagonists and literary conventions make them well suited to young adult readers It also looks at the ways in which contemporary readers access and share the works they re reading and it shows teachers ways to incorporate nontraditional ways of accessing and sharing books throughout their literature programs In addition to traditional genre chapters Literature for Young Adults includes chapters on literary nonfiction poetry short stories and drama cover art picture books illustrated literature and graphic novels and film It recognizes that while films can be used to complement print literature they are also a literacy format in their own right and one that young adults are particularly familiar and comfortable with The book s discussion of literary language including traditional elements as well as metafictional terms enables readers to share in a literary conversation with their students and others when communicating about books It will help readers teach young adults the language they need to articulate their responses to the books they are reading Film Study Frank Manchel, 1990 The four volumes of Film Study include a fresh approach to each of the basic categories in the original edition Volume one examines the film as film volume two focuses on the thematic approach to film volume three draws on the history of film and volume four contains extensive appendices listing film distributors sources and historical information as well as an index of authors titles and film personalities
