brings together contributions from the world's leading authorities into a single comprehensive text. It thoroughly examines the wide range of global health challenges facing low and middle income countries today and the various approaches nations adopt to deal with them. These challenges include measurement of health status, infectious and chronic diseases, injuries, nutrition, reproductive health, global environmental health, and complex emergencies. The book also explores the financing and management of emerging health systems as well as the roles of nation states, international agencies, the private sector, and nongovernmental organizations in promoting health. Designed for graduate level students, this text provides an expansive view of today's issues and challenges in global health and will be an invaluable resource in the years to come. Updated throughout to reflect new and emerging issues, the Fourth Edition of Researching International Migration by K. C. Zachariah, S. Irudaya Rajan, 2015-06-12. International migration and workers' remittances have of late become a significant economic and social phenomena affecting the fortunes of millions of families in the developing countries of Asia, Africa, and Latin America. Yet the measurements and methods of analysis of their impact on the individuals, families, economy, and society have not received the attention they deserve. A first of its kind study of international migration based on large scale surveys across a span of 15 years of fieldwork, this book includes methods of conducting field surveys, estimating migration, and analysing migration trends, remittances, selectivity, and differentials. It assesses other demographic socio-economic phenomenon such as education, employment, and women's status. It provides a methodology to evaluate remittances and their influence on the economy and examines social costs of migration on those left behind: parents, wives, and children, a neglected area in the field of migration. This handbook will be invaluable to scholars and students of migration studies, demography, development studies, and sociology, as well as policy makers, administrators, academics, and non-governmental organisations in the field.
