The Geneva Papers Christophe Courbage, 2016-04-29 In January 1976 Raymond Barre the first President of The Geneva Association and Orio Giarini its first Secretary General founded The Geneva Papers on Risk and Insurance with the main goal of supporting and encouraging research in the economics of risk and insurance At that time research in the field of insurance was still embryonic and insurance was regarded as peripheral social activity When sustained economic growth gained traction the function of insurance gradually emerged as a key contributor to economic development By integrating uncertainty into economic theory and benefiting from the progress of both financial economics and decision theory research developed further in the field of insurance economics and risk management and is now prolific The Geneva Papers on Risk and Insurance undeniably contributed to this evolution and its impact on research in insurance has largely exceeded what its two founding members could have expected This volume is a special collection of papers celebrating 40 Years of The Geneva Papers on Risk and Insurance The collection looks back at the storied history of The Geneva Papers on Risk and Insurance and features papers from some of the esteemed authors who have contributed to the journal in its lifetime This collection of papers highlights just a few of the many themes addressed in the papers published by the journal since it was created Nevertheless the selection exemplifies the richness and variety of topics the field of insurance covers

The Economic Crisis Donato Masciandaro, Ms. Rosaria Vega

Pansini, Mr. Marc Quintyn, 2011-11-01 The Asian financial crisis marked the beginning of worldwide efforts to improve the effectiveness of financial supervision. However, the crisis that started in 2007-08 was a crude awakening; several of these improvements seemed unable to avoid or mitigate the crisis. This paper brings the first systematic analysis of the role of two of these efforts: modifications in the architecture of financial supervision and in supervisory governance, and concludes that they were negatively correlated with economic resilience. Using the emerging distinction between macro and micro prudential supervision, we explore to what extent two separate institutions would allow for more checks and balances to improve supervisory governance and thus reduce the probability of supervisory failure. Macroprudential Solvency

Stress Testing of the Insurance Sector Mr. Andreas A. Jobst, Nobuyasu Sugimoto, Timo Broszeit, 2014-07-22 Over the last decade, stress testing has become a central aspect of the Fund's bilateral and multilateral surveillance work. Recently, more emphasis has also been placed on the role of insurance for financial stability analysis. This paper reviews the current state of system-wide solvency stress tests for insurance based on a comparative review of national practices and the experiences from the Fund's FSAP program with the aim of providing practical guidelines for the coherent and consistent implementation of such exercises. The paper also offers recommendations on improving the current insurance stress testing approaches and presentation of results. Financial Modeling, Actuarial Valuation and Solvency in Insurance

Mario V. Wüthrich, Michael Merz, 2013-04-04 Risk management for financial institutions is one of the key topics the financial industry has to deal with. The present volume is a mathematically rigorous text on solvency modeling. Currently, there are many new developments in this area in the financial and insurance industry: Basel III and Solvency II, but none of these developments provides a fully consistent and comprehensive framework for the analysis of solvency questions. Merz and Wüthrich combine ideas from financial mathematics, no-arbitrage theory, equivalent martingale measure, actuarial sciences, insurance claims modeling, cash flow valuation, and economic theory, risk aversion, probability distortion to provide a fully consistent framework. Within this framework, they then study solvency questions in incomplete markets, analyze hedging risks, and study asset and liability management questions as well as issues like the limited liability options dividend to shareholder questions, the role of reinsurance, etc. This work embeds the solvency discussion and long-term liabilities into a scientific framework and is intended for researchers as well as practitioners in the financial and actuarial industry, especially those in charge of internal risk management systems. Readers should have a good background in probability theory and statistics and should be familiar with popular distributions, stochastic processes, martingales, etc. Capital Requirements, Disclosure, and Supervision in the European Insurance Industry M. Starita, I. Malafronte, 2015-12-17 Capital Requirements, Disclosure, and Supervision in the European Insurance Industry provides an in-depth analysis of Solvency II's issues by combining both a theoretical approach and evidence of the empirical implications and effects on the European insurance industry. Corporate Governance in the European Insurance Industry O. Ricci, 2014-10-21 Corporate scandals at the beginning of the 2000s and the recent global financial crisis have renewed the attention of academics regulators and practitioners to agency problems and possible solutions in the financial sector Since that time much thought has been given to new regulations and international corporate governance standards in an attempt to guarantee prudent and sound financial management While much of this thought has been focussed on the banking sector Corporate Governance in the European Insurance Industry provides a unique perspective on the subject focusing on the insurance industry and asking some important theoretical and practical questions Are insurance companies systemically relevant and does the existing regulation provide adequate protection for customers and guarantee financial stability Is regulatory intervention consistent with economic and financial theories And crucially is this intervention consistent with empirical evidence of the behaviour and performance of insurance companies The first part of this book provides the reader with a comprehensive review of current academic studies on the topic the second part moves on to examine the regulation of corporate governance and its recent evolution after the global financial crisis Within a context of vivid debate in the financial services industry the issues explored in this book will be of value to anyone with an interest in insurance corporate governance and regulation It is also a key source of research for academics in insurance and finance as well as PhD students and post graduate students in relevant subjects
