Family-Run Universities in Japan Jeremy Breaden, Roger Goodman, 2020-07-03 Globally private universities enrol one in three of all higher education students In Japan which has the second largest higher education system in the world in terms of overall expenditure almost 80% of all university students attend private institutions According to some estimates up to 40% of these institutions are family businesses in the sense that members of a single family have substantive ownership or control over their operation This book offers a detailed historical sociological and ethnographic analysis of this important but largely under studied category of private universities as family business It examines how such universities in Japan have negotiated a period of major demographic decline since the 1990s their experiments in restructuring and reform the diverse experiences of those who worked and studied within them and above all their unexpected resilience It argues that this resilience derives from a number of inbuilt strengths of family business which are often overlooked in conventional descriptions of higher education systems and in predictions regarding the capacity of universities to cope with dramatic changes in their operating environment This book offers a new perspective on recent changes in the Japanese higher education sector and contributes to an emerging literature on private higher education and family business across the world Competition Science Vision
