Central American Biodiversity Falk Huettmann, 2015-08-04 This book highlights key results and lessons learnt from two field sites La Suerte in Costa Rica and Ometepe Nicaragua It provides long term data on species abundance and distribution Primates receive specific attention in this book as they are flagship species and good indicators for the health of an ecosystem but as well a money maker Many primate species are sensitive to habitat alteration and are often hunted out first But they play an important role as seed dispersal agents for the regeneration of the forest The book then compares results from the two field sites with regional trends and explores potential solutions such as REDD This book strongly calls for new approaches in conservation it makes the case for looking beyond the pure species biology and classic conservation angle and to take into account the economic and political realities Biology, 1998 Spatial Aspects of Environmental Policy Wayne Gray, 2019-01-22 There has been a recent explosion of research incorporating a spatial dimension in environmental and natural resource economics where the spatial aspects of human behaviour or the natural environment make a crucial difference in the analysis and policy response to the problem Much of this research has been driven by the growing availability of spatially explicit social science data and the development of tools and methodological advances to use these data Collected in this volume are 24 key articles considering the reasons for spatial variation in policies due to either efficiency or equity considerations and the consequences of that spatial variation for both environmental and economic outcomes These articles demonstrate that the failure to address spatial issues in the analysis can create two problems 1 the analysis provides a poor basis for predicting actual behaviour that is specifically based upon spatial considerations and 2 the analysis fails to provide a basis for designing spatially targeted policies that could lead to more efficient outcomes
