TO INVESTIGATE THE PROCESS OF MEIOSIS

Organisms produced by sexual reproduction are truly new organisms. They have different sets of genes from their parents. The gametes formed by meiosis are just for the purpose of sexual reproduction. Gametes cannot grow into another organism until they fuse with another gamete to form a zygote. When the zygote forms, it is genetically unique.

Genetic variation allows a species to have a better chance of adapting to and surviving sudden changes in the environment. No two individuals in a sexually reproducing population are exactly the same. Meiosis during sexual reproduction therefore ensures maximum genetic variation and improved the chances of a species' survival.

Milford, 2019-07-01 This book offers a meso level description of demographics science education and science teacher education Representing all 13 Canadian jurisdictions the book provides local insights that serve as the basis for exploring the Canadian system as a whole and function as a common starting point from which to identify causal relationships that may be associated with Canada s successes The book highlights commonalities consistencies and distinctions across the provinces and territories in a thematic analysis of the 13 jurisdiction specific chapters Although the analysis indicates a network of policy and practice issues warranting further consideration the diverse nature of Canadian science education makes simple identification of causal relationships elusive Canada has a reputation for strong science achievement However there is currently limited literature on science education in Canada at the general level or in specific areas such as Canadian science curriculum or science teacher education This book fills that gap by presenting a thorough description of science education at the provincial territorial level as well as a more holistic description of pressing issues for Canadian science education

Current Perspectives on the Value, Teaching, Learning, and Assessment of Design in STEM Education Jeffrey Buckley, Eva Hartell, Nicolaas Blom, 2023-08-25 Design is a central activity within Science Technology Engineering and Mathematics STEM education Within enacted practice design can feature within intended learning outcomes for example in learning to design and it can feature within pedagogical methodologies for example by learning through design Often holding differing disciplinary interpretations such as design as cyclical problem solving iterative design conceptual design or design with or without make understanding the educational merits of the ill defined and open nature of authentic designerly activity is paramount This Research Topic sets out to gain a more nuanced understanding of the value and role s of design within STEM educational contexts This Research Topic focuses on design within STEM educational contexts particularly in terms of teaching learning and assessment The aim is to contribute to the evidential basis which can be used to guide the incorporation of design into educational practice The topic has two central research objectives The first is to generate evidence regarding what design is in STEM education For example is the ability to design a singular or manifold construct Is the capacity to design or are factors of this ability both learnable and teachable How transferable is designerly knowledge between contexts How do different disciplinary contexts influence the interpretation of design The second is to further our understanding of how best to incorporate design within STEM education contexts For example how much emphasis should be placed on learning to or through design in school How should design be assessed within formal education Where and when is design best incorporated into education In posing these questions the goal of this research topic is to provide scholarly discourse which supports critical reflection and the challenging of assumptions regarding design in education
