Cognitive Contributions to the Perception of Spatial and Temporal Events G. Aschersleben,T. Bachmann,J. Müsseler,1999-11-18 The book is concerned with the cognitive contributions to perception that is with the influence of attention intention or motor processes on performances in spatial and temporal tasks The chapters deal with fundamental perceptual processes resulting from the simple localization of an object in space or from the temporal determination of an event within a series of events Chapters are based on presentations given at the Symposium on the Cognitive Contributions to the Perception of Spatial and Temporal Events September 7 9 1998 Ohlstadt Germany Following each chapter are commentary pieces from other researchers in the field At the meeting contributors were encouraged to discuss their theoretical positions along with presenting empirical results and the book s commentary sections help to preserve the spirit and controversies of the symposium The general topic of the book is split into three parts Two sections are devoted to the perception of unimodal spatial and temporal events and are accompanied by a third part on spatio temporal processes in the domain of intermodal integration The themes of the book are highly topical There is a growing interest in studies both with healthy persons and with patients that focus on localization errors and dissociations in localizations resulting from different tasks These errors lead to new concepts of how visual space is represented Such deviations are not only observed in the spatial domain but in the temporal domain as well Typical examples are errors in duration judgments or synchronization errors in tapping tasks In addition several studies indicate the influence of attention on both the timing and on the localization of dynamic events Another intriguing question originates from well known interactions between intermodal events namely whether these events are based on a single representation or whether different representations interact
