demographic and biometric approaches to human fertility in a way that will encourage future interdisciplinary research. Instead of offering a general overview the focus is to answer one question: Why does fertility and the number of live births vary from couple to couple within any particular population and from population to population across the human species as a whole. Topics covered include ovarian function, conception and pregnancy, intrauterine mortality, reproductive maturation and senescence, coital frequency and the waiting time to conception, marriage patterns and the initiation of reproduction, the fertility-reducing effects of breastfeeding, the impact of maternal nutrition on reproduction and reproductive seasonality. This unique combination of comprehensive subject matter and an integrated analytical approach makes the book ideally suited both as a graduate level textbook and as a reference work.
