Muhammadville Allen R. Remaley, 2015-07-28 After a long absence from his hometown in rural Pennsylvania and once completing his military service achieving university degrees earning a small fortune and suffering the loss of a wife and children a man Frank Sarvey makes an effort to renew a happiness lost He remarries and decides to take his wife back to the little river town he left behind In an attempt to retrace his steps and recapture a happier time Sarvey goes back and walks into his hometown football stadium where he played many games There he discovers the body of a decapitated man At the request of a former teammate and current chief of police Sarvey becomes involved in the search for the murdered mans killer But the search uncovers something unexpected On the outskirts of this small community there is another locality Muhammadville a conclave of the followers of Islam and the face of rural America is changing Sarvey works to preserve and protect a way of life he thought lost and his efforts take the reader on an open book fleshy pictorial of what is taking place in other communities across the United States unbeknownst to most Americans Testing the Untestable in Language Education Amos Paran, Lies Sercu, 2010 The testing and assessment of language competence continues to be a much debated issue in foreign language teaching and research This book is the first one to address the testing of four important dimensions of foreign language education which have been left largely unconsidered learner autonomy intercultural competence literature and literary competence and the integration of content and language learning Each area is considered through a theoretical framework followed by two empirical studies raising questions of importance to all language teachers How can one test literary competence Can intercultural competence be measured What about the integrated assessment of content and language in CLIL and teaching Is progress in autonomous learning skill gaugeable The book constitutes essential reading for anyone interested in the testing and assessment of seemingly largely untestable aspects of foreign language competence The title of this book is well chosen Despite the apparent oxymoron this collection of papers succeeds in addressing important issues of educational policy and theory with the precision born of empirical work combined with discussion of principles This book will open new options for testers for teachers and for those who make policy decisions Michael Byram School of Education University of Durham UK Dictionary Catalog of the Research Libraries of the New York Public Library, 1911-1971 New York Public Library.
