- ii. Genetics is the study of inherited traits, and their patterns, genes and traits and heredity. They fall into three broad hereditary categories:
- Genes are made up of DNA (Deoxyribonucleic Acid).
  - A trait is any characteristic that an organism displays. Traits are produced by an interaction between genetic and environmental influences.
  - The genome is the complete set of genetic instructions (including all an organism's chromosomes) a biological systems' total complement of inheritable instructions.
  - Only 1-2% of our DNA encodes proteins.
  - 98-99% of the genome contains DNA sequences that are either: repeating features that don't encode proteins.
  - 98-99% of the genome contains DNA sequences that regulate expression of proteins.
  - For a gene that encodes a sequence, a mutation must occur in that gene's sequence in the DNA.
  - For a gene that encodes a sequence, a mutation must occur in that gene's sequence and then must be passed from parent to offspring.
  - The genome contains many repetitive DNA sequences that do not encode proteins found in the genome.
  - Chromosomes hold all (very) important genes and associated proteins.
  - Similar genome structures exist.
  - All cells in body contain the genome.
  - Every genome contains an "eukaryotic signature" and "prokaryotic signature".
- iii. Expression of genes
- protein-coding or a transcription factor.
  - protein-coding or a regulatory protein.
  - DNA sequence in the genome or a human cell contains a regulatory site is regulatory because it's less likely that a mutation in it will be deleterious or that it's overexpressed.
