environmental impact of HVAC design Modeling and Control in Air-conditioning Systems Ye Yao, Yuebin Yu, 2016-10-01
This book investigates the latest modeling and control technologies in the context of air conditioning systems Firstly it introduces the state space method for developing dynamic models of all components in a central air conditioning system The models are primarily nonlinear and based on the fundamental principle of energy and mass conservation and are transformed into state space form through linearization The book goes on to describe and discuss the state space models with the help of graph theory and the structure matrix theory Subsequently virtual sensor calibration and virtual sensing methods which are very useful for real system control are illustrated together with a case study Model based predictive control and state space feedback control are applied to air conditioning systems to yield better local control while the air side synergic control scheme and a global optimization strategy based on the decomposition coordination method are developed so as to achieve energy conservation in the central air conditioning system Lastly control strategies for VAV systems including total air volume control and trim response static pressure control are investigated in practice Controls and Automation for Facilities Managers Viktor Boed, 1998-06-23 Building owners and managers expect fully automated and energy efficient operations on line diagnostic of systems parameters to prevent failures and on line diagnostic of problems prior to exposing occupants to deteriorating environmental conditions A simple HVAC control is no longer acceptable by current standards Controls and Automation for Facilities Managers examines principles and applications of HVAC engineering outlining information for design development of operations logic systems diagnostics and building of environmental conditions with reliability and minimum operating cost The book moves from the principles of mechanical engineering related to HVAC systems through DDC applications engineering thereby summarizing complex topics of electrical engineering for mechanical engineers Individual chapters Provide essential information on related mechanical HVAC engineering controls strategies and examples of basic algorithms for on line diagnostics Guide DDC application engineers to a more thorough understanding of mechanical engineering disciplines i e the psychrometric chart as well as guide mechanical engineers to a more thorough understanding of DDC applications engineering i e direct digital controllers and systems Outline information on current topics Discussions also include Indoor air quality presenting material for facilities engineers as well as controls and consulting engineers Utilities metering describing the distribution of real time data over a network including consumption alarms diagnostics trends and reports On line problem diagnostics outlining HVAC and environmental problems Controls and Automation for Facilities Managers serves as an exceptional guide for facilities managers and engineers architects and consulting engineers vendors and contractors and other professionals in the design application and implementation of controls and automation systems for industrial educational institutional and governmental facilities This reference will enhance design systems implementation systems operation and maintenance effecting the ultimate goal of its readers implementation of fully automated environmental control systems trouble free operation and optimization of operating and

Data Mining and Machine Learning in Building Energy Analysis Frédéric Magoules,Hai-Xiang Zhao,2016-02-08
The energy consumption of a building has in recent years become a determining factor during its design and construction With carbon footprints being a growing issue it is important that buildings be optimized for energy conservation and CO2 reduction This book therefore presents AI models and optimization techniques related to this application The authors start with a review of recent models for the prediction of building energy consumption engineering methods statistical methods artificial intelligence methods ANNs and SVMs in particular The book then focuses on SVMs by first applying them to building energy consumption then presenting the principles and various extensions and SVR The authors then move on to RDP which they use to determine building energy faults through simulation experiments before presenting SVR model reduction methods and the benefits of parallel computing The book then closes by presenting some of the current research and advancements in the field Energy Conservation Design Guidelines for New Office Buildings United States.
