

Greek Drama Test Review

Define the types of Greek Drama:

- Comedy- In general, a story that ends happily. The first comedies were mainly satirical and mocked men in power for their vanity and foolishness. Much later, comedies were about ordinary people and were more like sitcoms. (Greek Drama Notes)
- Tragedy- Play, novel, or other narrative, depicting serious and important events, in which the main character comes to an unhappy end. Tragedy dealt with the big themes of love, loss, pride, the abuse of power and the fraught relationships between men and gods. The main protagonist of a tragedy commits some terrible crime without realizing how foolish and arrogant he has been. Then, as he slowly realizes his error, the world crumbles around him.

Fill in the blank:

- "Hubris": according to its modern usage, is exaggerated self-pride or self-confidence (overbearing pride), often resulting in fatal retribution.
- "Fate": the will or principle or determining cause by which things in general are believed to come to be as they are or events to happen as they do: destiny. The Greeks believed that everything happened for a reason and that the path they led in life was prescribed for them by the Gods and that there was no escaping their fate or destiny.
- Entertainment is a bonus for the ritual audience; the goal is to gain prosperity from the gods. Modern Theatre must entertain.

Define the Following Greek Drama Terms (It may behoove you to be able to label them on an Ode):

Chorus: made up of about fifteen elders of Thebes

Choragos: leader of the Chorus

Ode: These odes served both to separate one scene from the next, since there were no curtains, and also to provide the chorus' response to the preceding scene.

Prologue: a separate introductory section of a literary or musical work.

Strophe: Part of the ode that the chorus chants as it moves from right to left across the stage.

Epode: Final stanza of the ode, following the strophe and antistrophe.

Paeon: Hymn in praise of a god—in this case Dionysos, in whose honor the Greeks performed their plays.

Exodus: The final, or exit, scene.

Identify the following characters to Sophocles' Greek dramas (It may behoove you to make a family tree): You do not have to draw a family tree on the board but they need to know how all of the characters are connected in all of the plays that we have read. They can go online and look for Oedipus Rex Family Tree in order to assist them further.
