assessment in the United Kingdom and the United States from the mid 1930s to the mid 1980s and newly conceptualizes holistic scoring by philosophically and reflectively reinterpreting the genre's origin, development and significance. The book chronicles holistic scoring from its initial origin in the United Kingdom to the beginning of its heyday in the United States. Chapters cover little-known history from the holistic scoring of school certificate examination essays written by Blitz evacuee children in Devon during WWII to teacher adaptations of holistic scoring in California schools during the 1970s. Chapters detail the complications, challenges and successes of holistic scoring from British high-stakes admissions examinations to foundational pedagogical research by Bay Area Writing Project scholars. The book concludes with lessons learned providing a guide for continued efforts to assess student writing through evidence models. Exploring the possibility of actionable history. Early Holistic Scoring of Writing reconceptualizes writing assessment. Here is a new history that retells the origins of our present body of knowledge in writing studies. Normal Instructor and Teachers World, 1924 The Wisconsin

Agriculturist, 1916 Individualized Assessment of Brain Aging across the Lifespan: Applications in Health and Disease Katja Franke, Christian Gaser, Nicolas Cherbuin, James H. Cole, 2020-08-10 Physical Activity and Sport During the First Ten Years of Life Richard Bailey, Jennifer P. Agans, Jean Côté, Andy Daly-Smith, Phillip D. Tomporowski, 2021-04-12

Evidence suggests that the first 10 or so years of life create the foundation for subsequent participation in recreational and health-related physical activity. This book brings together researchers and practitioners with expertise in issues related to physical activity, physical education and sport during the primary elementary phase of schooling to explore these important issues. Combining interdisciplinary perspectives, the book addresses the inherent complexity of researching with young children. It looks at the evidence on development during the first 10 years and how that evidence relates to physical activity and to sport in pre-school, school and out of school. Finally, the book offers a series of national case studies from Asia, Europe and Africa demonstrating the importance of age-appropriate sport and physical activity. This is important reading for any student, researcher, educator or policy maker with an interest in physical activity and health education in the early years or at primary elementary level, paediatric exercise science or youth sport. History from the Wisconsin State Journal, 1852-2002 Frank Denton, 2002. This fascinating collection reproduces the most important front pages in the history of the Wisconsin State Journal newspaper from its first publication under that name on September 30, 1852 to the current War on Terrorism. See what Wisconsinites first read about Abraham Lincoln's election and assassination, Custer's last stand against the Sioux, the first votes by women, Henry Ford's $5 daily wage, the Saint Valentine's Day mob massacre in Chicago, the disappearance of Amelia Earhart as she attempted to fly around the world and the war's elections, crimes and social revolutions that have defined the past century and a half. Each front page reproduced from the original is readable down to the smallest type. In 2002 the Wisconsin State Journal celebrates its Sesquicentennial, marking one hundred and fifty years of service to the people of Madison and the State of Wisconsin. The newspaper had an earlier inception as the Madison Express in 1839 when Madison was a territorial town on the frontier and statehood was still nine years away Readers will notice the newspaper s appearance has changed nearly as much as have the methods of gathering the news and producing the paper But readers fascination with and hunger for the news of each day remain strong

Herald and Presbyter ,1894 The Decline of the Western-Centric World and the Emerging New Global Order
Yun-han Chu,Yongnian Zheng,2020-11-24 The Western liberal democratic world order which seemingly triumphed following the collapse of communism is looking increasingly fragile as populists and nationalists take power in the United States Europe and elsewhere as the momentum of democratization in developing countries stalls and as Western liberal establishments fail to deal with economic stagnation worsening political polarization social inequality and migrant crises At the same time there is a shift of economic power from the West towards Asia This book explores these critical developments and their consequences for the world order It considers how far the loss of the West s power to dominate the world order together with the relative decline of US power and its abdication of its global leadership role will lead to more conflict disorder and chaos and how far non Western actors including China India and the Muslim world are capable of establishing visionary policy initiatives which reconfigure the paths and rules of economic integration and globalization and the mechanisms of global governance The book also assesses the sustainability of the economic rise of China and other non Western actors explores the Western liberal democratic order s capacity for resilience and discusses how far the outlook is pessimistic or optimistic

New Breeder's Gazette ,1890 Physical Activity, Self-Regulation, and Executive Control Across the Lifespan Sean P. Mullen,Peter Hall,2016-02-05 There is overwhelming evidence linking increased physical activity with positive changes in cognitive functioning and brain health Much of what we know about these interrelationships comes from aerobic exercise training studies with older adults and children This literature has paved the way for the neuroscientific investigation of mechanisms responsible for exercise induced cognitive and brain health enhancement a list that ranges from molecular changes to systemic changes in executive control and neural connectivity A new perspective has also emerged that aims to understand executive control processes that may underlie the regulation of health behavior In accordance with this view physical activity falls under the umbrella of health behaviors that require a substantial amount of executive control Executive control is a limited resource and the aging process depletes this resource People who regularly exercise are said to have higher self regulatory control planning goal shielding and impulse control than irregular exercisers The successful maintenance of physical activity participation in lieu of daily cognitive stressors likely reflects an adaptive resistance to control failures Indeed a handful of studies have shown the relationship between greater executive control and subsequently higher levels of physical activity However little is known about the neural correlates of physical activity adherence or sedentary behavior with the view that neurocognitive factors have an antecedent and reciprocal influence on these behaviors No research has focused on the brain networks responsible for the self regulation of physical activity which likely overlaps with structures and functions playing critical roles in the regulation of other health behaviors Interdisciplinary investigations are needed to explain the extent to which physical activity self regulation and self regulatory failure is dependent upon or under the influence of executive control processes and brain networks Understanding the degree to which self regulatory resources may be enhanced restored and trained will have enormous implications for basic science and applied fields It is also of great import to understand whether or not physical activity self regulation is a domain specific behavior associated with specific brain networks or to determine the extent to which regulatory network sharing occurs The aim of this Frontiers Research Topic is to curate contributions from researchers in social and cognitive neurosciences and related fields whose work involves the study of physical activity behavior self regulation and executive control For this Research Topic we therefore solicit reviews original research articles and opinion papers which draw theoretical or empirical connections related to sustained physical activity behavior self regulatory strategies cognitive performance and brain structure and function While focusing on work in the neurosciences this Research Topic also welcomes contributions in the form of behavioral studies psychophysiological investigations and methodological innovations This Frontiers Research Topic will carve out new directions for the fields of exercise cognitive and social neurosciences We hope you will consider submitting your work
