The Arctic Ocean Alan Nairn, 2013-11-22 This trip backward in time capsulizes in a general way the geologic development of the area that is now northern Alaska The Cretaceous through Recent history is predominantly one of erosion of the ancient Brooks Range and filling of the Colville Geosyncline under processes like those in Operation today All the rocks older than Jurassic however were deposited far from their present sites One of the intriguing tectonic puzzles involves the geographic positions and relative timing of events that occurred during the orogeny that built the Brooks Range I suggest that pre Cretaceous deposition took place far to the north along the western margin of the Caledonides Subsequently the region that is now northern Alaska moved southward and impinged upon a northward moving plate or plates from the Pacific region. Interactions between these two major parts of the earth's crust produced the Brooks Range during the Jurassic. Later developments reflect continuing readjustments of the northern third of Alaska as southward movement was dissipated in diverse systems faulting and lateral displacement.

ACKNOWLEDGMENTS I am indebted to many colleagues who during the past 30 years shared with me the excitement and pleasures of exploring the geology of northern Alaska. Among these are W P Brosge, H N Reiser, R L Detterman, A K Armstrong, A L Bowsher, E G Sable, I L Tailleux, C G Mull, M D Mangus, A H Lachenbruch, M C Lachenbruch, R L Morris, C J

Cultural Grammars of Nation, Diaspora and Indigeneity in Canada considers how the terms of critical debate in literary and cultural studies in Canada have shifted with respect to race, nation and difference. In asking how Indigenous and diasporic interventions have remapped these debates, the contributors argue that a new cultural grammar is at work and attempt to sketch out some of the ways it operates. The essays reference pivotal moments in Canadian literary and cultural history and speak to ongoing debates about Canadian nationalism, postcolonialism, migrancy and transnationalism. Topics covered include the Asian race riots in Vancouver in 1907, the cultural memory of internment and dispersal of Japanese Canadians in the 1940s, the politics of migrant labour and the domestic labour scheme in the 1960s and the trial of Robert Pickton in Vancouver in 2007. The contributors are particularly interested in how diaspora and indigeneity continue to contribute to this critical reconfiguration and in how conversations about diaspora and indigeneity in the Canadian context have themselves been transformed.

Cultural Grammars is an attempt to address both the interconnections and the schisms between these multiply fractured critical terms as well as the larger conceptual shifts that have occurred in response to national and postnational arguments.

The well known story of the Beothuk is that they were an isolated people who through conflict with Newfoundland settlers and Mi'kmaq were made extinct in 1829. Narratives about the disappearance of the Beothuk and the reasons for their supposed extinction soon became entrenched in historical accounts and the popular imagination. Beothuk explores how the history of a people has been misrepresented by the stories of outsiders writing to serve their own interests, from Viking sagas to the accounts of European explorers to the work of early twentieth century anthropologists. Drawing on narrative theory and the philosophy of history, Christopher Aylward lays bare the limitations of the accepted Beothuk story which perpetuated but could never prove the notion of Beothuk extinction. Only with the integration of Indigenous perspectives beginning in the 1920s was this accepted story seriously questioned With the accumulation of new sources and methods archaeological evidence previously unexplored British and French accounts Mi kmaq oral history and the testimonies of Labrador Innu and Beothuk descendants a new historical reality has emerged Rigorous and compelling Beothuk demonstrates the enduring power of stories to shape our understanding of the past and the impossibility of writing Indigenous history without Indigenous storytellers The Voyages of the Cabots Samuel Edward Dawson,1897
