Date examined _2/12/09_

Preceptor Name: Dr. G

CHIEF COMPLAINT:

Dizziness and weakness in right leg

HISTORY OF PRESENT ILLNESS (chronology and progression, pertinent positive and negatives)

Patient, an 82 year old Caucasian male, was in his usual state of health until 2 weeks ago, when he experienced sudden onset slurred speech, dizziness, weakness in his right leg which precipitated a fall in his home. These complaints began after his daily exercise. Dizziness and weakness continued unabated until 4 days ago, when his wife brought him in for a check-up. He was subsequently admitted for testing to rule out stroke. He reports that his dizziness has improved since admission, and is currently 3- 4 out of 10. He has no history of such symptoms. Patient attributes his symptoms to a stroke, but is concerned that they may be due to amyotrophic lateral sclerosis.

The second edition of this book provides scientific and clinical insights on the management of patients who arrive at the hospital with a presentation consistent with a potential acute coronary syndrome. Focusing on the cardiology aspects of chest pain, it presents the science and methodology that has allowed the remarkable improvements in diagnostic accuracy and improved patient outcomes for the evaluation of patients presenting with suspected acute coronary syndromes. Chapters address key issues of the implementation of high sensitivity troponin and the use of contemporary non invasive myocardial perfusion evaluation technologies e.g. coronary artery computed tomography. It also addresses the cutting edge application of new technologies that promise to effect the early identification of coronary vascular disease. This new edition offers updated chapters as well as brand new chapters. Short Stay Management of Chest Pain is a valuable tool for acute care physicians, nurses and hospital administrators devoted to caring for this population.

A Practical Guide to the Evaluation of Child Physical Abuse and Neglect Angelo P. Giardino, Michelle A. Lyn, Eileen R. Giardino, 2010-06-09. As we near the 50th anniversary of the landmark article by C. Henry Kempe and his colleagues entitled The Battered Child Syndrome, which ushered in the modern era of professional attention by pediatricians and other child health professionals, we have reason for both celebration and concern. We can take heart that over the recent decades a great deal of professional attention has focused on the problem of child abuse and neglect. In every state of the country, there are mandatory reporting laws that require nurses, physicians and social workers to report suspicions of maltreatment to the appropriate authorities for investigation. The act of reporting provides legal immunity to the reporter except when performed in bad faith. Progress in understanding the factors that place children at risk for harm from physical abuse and neglect now permits prevention and intervention. The peer reviewed literature dealing with child abuse and neglect has proliferated, with high quality work being done and reported on the many dimensions related to the epidemiology, mechanism, treatment and prognosis of child maltreatment. Efforts are being directed toward developing an evidence based approach to the prevention of child abuse and neglect. These are some of the positives. However, negatives exist and remain reasons for concern. Despite a tremendous amount of attention to the problem of maltreatment there are at least 3 million reports of suspected child abuse and neglect made annually with nearly 1 million cases being substantiated
