

ENDOCRINE SYSTEM

Endocrine System: WORKING TOGETHER

Each organ system works on other systems within the body to do its "job". Our bodies learn just some of the ways that the endocrine system interacts with other organ systems.

Nervous System

Circulatory System

Endocrine System: FACTS

Endocrine System: PROBLEMS

Most of the time, the endocrine system works perfectly well. However, sometimes problems can arise.

Diabetes

Diabetes is a condition that causes high blood glucose (sugar) levels. It is caused by the body being unable to either produce or use the hormone insulin. So, the glucose in the blood gets stuck or stays too high. Symptoms include increased thirst, weight gain, changes in vision, frequent weight changes, persistent acne, numbness or tingling in the hands.

Endocrine System: KEY TERMS

Term	Definition
Endocrine System	Network of endocrine glands that make, store, and release hormones.
Hormones	Chemical messengers that carry information and instructions from one cell to another.

Endocrine System: FUNCTIONS

The endocrine system is a network of glands that produce hormones. Hormones are the body's chemical messengers that carry information and instructions from one cell to another. Hormones control many, many important processes in our bodies.

Function of the Endocrine System

Endocrine System: HORMONES

Hormones are chemical signals. Hormones are released by a gland and travel in the blood to a receptor that binds and binds to that specific hormone. The hormone then binds to a receptor and triggers a series of events that cause the body to respond. This causes an effect on the body.

Endocrine System: FIGHT-OR-FLIGHT

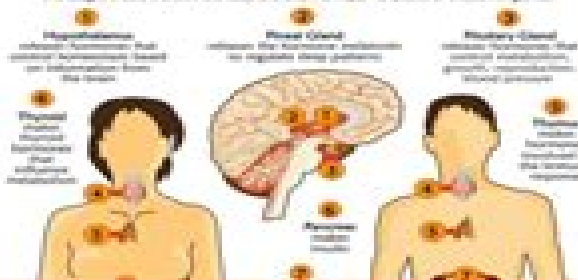

The fight-or-flight response is a reaction that occurs in the body when we are really frightened. The fight-or-flight response prepares the body to either fight or flee. When we are really frightened, our body releases hormones that prepare the body to either fight or flee. The fight-or-flight response is triggered by the release of hormones that prepare the body to either fight or flee. The fight-or-flight response is triggered by the release of hormones that prepare the body to either fight or flee. The fight-or-flight response is triggered by the release of hormones that prepare the body to either fight or flee.

Today, we do not usually fight or flee as we have before. But our bodies still have the same way to react when we are really frightened. The fight-or-flight response is triggered by the release of hormones that prepare the body to either fight or flee. The fight-or-flight response is triggered by the release of hormones that prepare the body to either fight or flee. The fight-or-flight response is triggered by the release of hormones that prepare the body to either fight or flee.

Endocrine System: GLANDS

A gland is a structure that produces and releases substances that perform a specific function in the body. There are many glands in the body. Some glands are endocrine glands, which release hormones into the bloodstream. Other glands are exocrine glands, which release substances into the body through a duct. Endocrine glands include the hypothalamus, pituitary, thyroid, parathyroid, adrenal, and pancreas.

Endocrine System: FEEDBACK LOOPS

Endocrine activities are regulated by complex feedback loops. These feedback loops help the body maintain a balance. When a hormone is released, it triggers a response in the body. This response then triggers another response, which then triggers another response, and so on. This creates a feedback loop that helps the body maintain a balance.

The glands react to hormone changes in the blood in the same way. The glands only release enough hormone to bring the blood back to normal. If the blood is too high, the glands stop producing it for a while. If the blood is too low, the glands start producing it again. This allows the body to maintain a balance.

Not all blood sugar changes are the same. Sometimes, the blood sugar is too high. This is called hyperglycemia. Sometimes, the blood sugar is too low. This is called hypoglycemia. The body has feedback loops that help it maintain a balance of blood sugar.
