Redefining Tandem Language and Culture Learning in Higher Education Claire Tardieu, Céline Horgues, 2019-08-21 This book provides a comprehensive critical account of tandem learning charting its evolution from its origins in European educational settings to modern programs offering new perspectives on the approach's role within higher education Taking stock of the ways in which increased globalization has produced new linguistic and sociocultural realities the volume begins by looking back at the development of tandem learning over the last several decades growing out of a need to create more opportunities for L2 learners to communicate in their target language The book then examines the different learning objectives and learning outcomes of tandem learning arrangements moving toward a discussion of tandem learning's potential role in shaping language policy and the unique challenges involved in implementing tandem programs at higher education institutions. The final section of the book brings the previous discussions together to consider new tools and technology and the ways in which they can better equip language educators to implement tandem learning in their own practice. Highlighting tandem learning's potential to promote multilingual and multicultural learning on a global scale, this volume will be of particular interest to students and researchers in intercultural communication, language education, multilingualism, and applied linguistics.

Economies of Writing Bruce Horner, Brice Nordquist, Susan M. Ryan, 2017-03-01. Economies of Writing advances scholarship on political economies of writing and writing instruction, considering them in terms of course, subject, pedagogy, technology, and social practice. Taking the economic as a necessary point of departure and contention for the field, the collection insists that writing concerns are inevitably participants in political markets. In their consideration of forms of valuation, production, and circulation of knowledge with labor and with capital, approaching the economic as plural, contingent, and political, chapters explore complex forces shaping the production and valuation of literacies, languages, identities, and institutions, and consider their implications for composition scholarship, teaching, administration, and public rhetorics. Chapters engage a range of issues, including knowledge transfer, cyberpublics, graduate writing courses, and internationalized web domains. Economies of Writing challenges dominant ideologies of writing, writing skills, writing assessment, language, writing technology, and public rhetoric by revealing the complex and shifting valuations of writing practices as they circulate within and across different economies. The volume is a significant contribution to rhetoric and composition's understanding of and ways to address its seemingly perennial unease about its own work.
