Learn how to change the way we use them. Roadkill: Unveiling the True Cost of Our Toxic Relationship with Cars by Professor Henrietta Moore and Arthur Kay explores the philosophical implications of car culture as well as the practical impacts it has on your money, your taxes, your neighborhood, your planet, your health, and your happiness. How can we fix our toxic relationship with cars? The authors offer a new way of thinking that promises to multiply your choices, improve your city, and expand your freedoms. Inside the book: Jaw-dropping real-world examples of the human and monetary costs imposed by cars, including the fact that cars have killed 60 to 80 million people since their invention, more than the deaths of WWI and WWII combined. Philosophical arguments explaining how car-centric cities restrict the freedoms of drivers and non-drivers alike. A catalogue of ideas and approaches for urban designers, transport planners, policymakers, and mayors. Practical recommendations for all contexts: for you, your family, your neighborhood, your town or city, and your national government. Cars Karel Williams, 1994

Car manufacturing involves the movement of large numbers of heavy awkward objects incorporating some 20 000 parts through a large number of short cycles. As to be expected, the constant flow of the processes involved is disrupted by both the inherent complexities of production and those of market restrictions. This study, a unique blend of analysis, history, and case studies, not only characterizes the essence of car manufacturing but also explains the links between production, market conditions, and financial results and constraints. At the same time, it challenges fashionable views on the car industry and rejects the current preference for facile dichotomies, e.g. mass production vs. lean production, Japan vs. America, freedom vs. regulation. However, it also shows that the failure of BMC, the largest failure in the industry to date, cannot be attributed to its incomplete adoption of the best system. Ford and Toyota were exceptionally successful in their production organization, but their solutions had more in common than is generally acknowledged, and those solutions also required exceptional market conditions for their successful implementation.

The High Cost of Free Parking Donald Shoup, 2017-10-20

One of the American Planning Association's most popular and influential books is finally in paperback with a new preface from the author on how thinking about parking has changed since this book was first published. In this no holds barred treatise, Donald Shoup argues that free parking has contributed to auto dependence, rapid urban sprawl, extravagant energy use, and a host of other problems. Planners mandate free parking to alleviate congestion but end up distorting transportation choices, debasing urban design, damaging the economy, and degrading the environment. Ubiquitous free parking helps explain why our cities sprawl on a scale fit more for cars than for people and why American motor vehicles now consume one eighth of the world's total oil production But it doesn't have to be this way Shoup proposes new ways for cities to regulate parking namely charge fair market prices for curb parking use the resulting revenue to pay for services in the neighborhoods that generate it and remove zoning requirements for off street parking Such measures according to the Yale trained economist and UCLA planning professor will make parking easier and driving less necessary Join the swelling ranks of Shoupistas by picking up this book today You'll never look at a parking spot the same way again Trains, Buses, People Christof Spieler, 2018-10-23 What are the best transit cities in the US The best Bus Rapid Transit lines The most useless rail transit lines The missed opportunities In the US the 25 largest metropolitan areas and many smaller cities have fixed guideway transit rail or bus rapid transit Nearly all of them are talking about expanding Yet discussions about transit are still remarkably unsophisticated To build good transit the discussion needs to focus on what matters quality of service not the technology that delivers it all kinds of transit riders the role of buildings streets and sidewalks and above all getting transit in the right places Christof Spieler has spent over a decade advocating for transit as a writer community leader urban planner transit board member and enthusiast He strongly believes that just about anyone regardless of training or experience can identify what makes good transit with the right information In the fun and accessible Trains Buses People An Opinionated Atlas of US Transit Spieler shows how cities can build successful transit He profiles the 47 metropolitan areas in the US that have rail transit or BRT using data photos and maps for easy comparison The best and worst systems are ranked and Spieler offers analysis of how geography politics and history complicate transit planning He shows how the unique circumstances of every city have resulted in very different transit systems Using appealing visuals Trains Buses People is intended for non experts it will help any citizen professional or policymaker with a vested interest evaluate a transit proposal and understand what makes transit effective While the book is built on data it has a strong point of view Spieler takes an honest look at what makes good and bad transit and is not afraid to look at what went wrong He explains broad concepts but recognizes all of the technical geographical and political difficulties of building transit in the real world In the end Trains Buses People shows that it is possible with the right tools to build good transit Marketing Michael John Baker, 2001 Overcharged Charles Silver, David A. Hyman, 2018-07-03 Why is America's health care system so expensive Why do hospitalized patients receive bills laden with inflated charges that come out of the blue from out of network providers or demands for services that weren't delivered Why do we pay 600 for EpiPens that contain a dollar's worth of medicine Why is more than 1 trillion one out of every three dollars that passes through the system lost to fraud wasted on services that don't help patients or otherwise misspent Overcharged answers these questions It shows that America's health care system which replaces consumer choice with government control and third party payment is effectively designed to make health care as expensive as possible Prices will fall quality will improve and medicine will become more patient friendly only when consumers take charge and exert pressure from below For this to happen consumers must control the money As Overcharged explains when health care providers are subjected to the same competitive forces that shape other industries they will either deliver better services more cheaply or risk being replaced by someone who will Eating the Big Fish Adam Morgan,2009-02-17 EATING THE BIG FISH How Challenger Brands Can Compete Against Brand Leaders Second Edition Revised and Expanded The second edition of the international bestseller now revised and updated for 2009 just in time for the business challenges ahead It contains over 25 new interviews and case histories two completely new chapters introduces a new typology of 12 different kinds of Challengers has extensive updates of the main chapters a range of new exercises supplies weblinks to view interviews online and offers supplementary downloadable information
