to the man's helpless plea briefly before brushing him away and closing the door. The same man appears in church at the end of the Sunday sermon, walks up to the open space in front of the pulpit and faces the people. No one stops him. He quietly but frankly confronts the congregation: "I'm not complaining; just stating facts about their compassion or apathetic lack thereof for the jobless like him in Raymond." Upon finishing his address to the congregation, he collapses and dies a few days later. That next Sunday, Henry Maxwell, deeply moved by the events of the past week, presents a challenge to his congregation: "Do not do anything without first asking, 'What would Jesus do?'" This challenge is the theme of the novel and is the driving force of the plot. From this point on, the rest of the novel consists of certain episodes that focus on individual characters as their lives are transformed by the challenge.

In His Steps Charles Monroe Sheldon, 2004. Spirituality involves taking our personal experience seriously as raw material for redemption and holiness; examining the material of our daily lives with as much rigor as we do Scripture and doctrine. The Confessions is the landmark work in this exercise. Eugene Peterson, from his book Take and Read, written in the waning days of the Roman era, Augustine's Confessions are the moving diary of a soul's journey. From his earliest memories of childhood through his turbulent and licentious youth to his resolute conversion at the age of 32, Augustine traces a pilgrimage of unbounded grace. Throughout, he passionately addresses the spiritual questions that have engaged thoughtful minds since time began. Every Christian library needs the classics, the timeless books that have spoken powerfully to generations of believers.
