Methodology for assessing the role of mangroves in trace metal(loid) filtration to develop a mechanism of payments for environmental services for mangroves in Vietnam

Nguyễn, T.N., Truong, V.V., Pham, T.T., 2020-12-24 This document aims to provide an understanding of the scientific methodology that can be employed to demonstrate monitor and assess mangrove relevant environmental services by using case studies of mangroves in Hai Phong City and the Can Gio district of Ho Chi Minh City in Vietnam In addition to previous work this methodology evaluates the water purification services of mangroves in the context of existing policies on payment for forest environmental services in Vietnam and discusses lessons learned and funding requirements for effective assessment evaluation and monitoring of the service The findings contribute to identifying users and buyers of mangrove environmental services and developing implementation and monitoring mechanisms for payment for forest environmental services PFES through the application of environmental indices The document is made in the hope that future studies can apply its methodology in other regions of the country to develop a database for evaluating the roles of mangroves throughout Vietnam Fusing Decision Support Systems Into the Fabric of the Context Ana Respício, Frada Burstein, 2012 The field of Information Systems has been shifting from an immersion view which relies on the immersion of information technology IT as part of the business environment to a fusion view in which IT is fused within the business environment forming a unified fabric that integrates work and personal life as well as personal and public information In the context of this fusion view decision support systems should achieve a total alignment with the context and the personal preferences of users The advantage of such a view is an opportunity of seamless integration between enterprise environments and decision support system components Thus researchers and practitioners have to address the challenges of dealing with this shift in viewpoint and its consequences for decision making and decision support systems theories and applications This book presents the latest innovations and advances in decision support systems with a special focus on the fusion view These achievements will be of interest to all those involved and interested in decision making practice and research as well as more generally in the fusion view of modern information systems The book covers a wide range of topical themes including a fusion view of business intelligence and data warehousing applications of multi criteria decision analysis intelligent models and technologies for decision making knowledge management decision support approaches and models for emergency management and medical and other specific domains

The Combined Sharon/Anammox Process L. G. J. M. van Dongen, M. S. M. Jetten, Mark C. M. van Loosdrecht, 2001-09-30 Wastewater treatment management alongside many other industries is seeking to attain a higher degree of sustainability for its processes by focusing on new technologies which minimise the consumption of resources or even recover them from the wastewater Conventional removal of ammonium requires usually large amounts of energy for aeration and organic carbon for denitrification This report focuses on making the nitrogen removal process more sustainable This can be achieved by a partial oxidation of ammonium to nitrite after which the nitrate produced can be converted into nitrogen gas with the rest of ammonium under anoxic conditions The treatment of nitrogen rich water can be carried out beneficially by a combination of the Sharon process with the Anammox process In this combined process less than 50% of the aeration energy is needed no COD is required and an insignificant amount of sludge is produced In this Report the potential of using this technology for the treatment of water arising from sludge treatment at a municipal wastewater treatment plant WWTP is evaluated and the results of the operation of the system are described in detail This reject water contains a significant fraction of the N load towards the wastewater treatment plant The results are used in an economic evaluation of a potential full scale installation The Combined Sharon Anammox Process Report will provide an invaluable source of information for all those concerned with the efficient and sustainable treatment of wastewater including plant managers process designers consultants and researchers
