Going North Thinking West Irvin Peckham:

Going North Thinking West Irvin Peckham, 2010-10-15 A long time writing program administrator and well respected iconoclast Irvin Peckham is strongly identified with progressive ideologies in education However in Going North Thinking West Peckham mounts a serious critique of what is called critical pedagogy primarily a project of the academic left in spite of his own sympathies there College composition is fundamentally a middle class enterprise and is conducted by middle class professionals while student demographics show increasing presence of the working class In spite of best intentions to ameliorate inequitable social class relationships says Peckham critical pedagogies can actually contribute to reproducing those relationships in traditional forms not only perpetuating social inequities but pushing working class students toward self alienation as well Peckham argues for more clarity on the history of critical thinking social class structures and teacher identity especially as these are theorized by Pierre Bourdieu while he undertakes a critical inquiry of the teaching practices with which even he identifies Going North Thinking West focuses especially on writing teachers who claim a necessary linkage between critical thinking and writing skills these would include both teachers who promote the fairly a political position that argumentation is the obvious and necessary form of academic discourse and more controversial teachers who advocate turning a classroom into a productive site of social transformation Ultimately Peckham argues for a rereading of Freire an icon of transformational pedagogy and for a collaborative investigation of students worlds as the first step in a successful writing pedagogy It is an argument for a pedagogy based on service to students rather than on transforming them

On Teacher Neutrality Daniel P. Richards, 2020-11-06 On Teacher Neutrality explores the consequences of ideological arguments about teacher neutrality in the context of higher education It is the first edited collection to focus exclusively on this contentious concept emphasizing the practical possibilities and impossibilities of neutrality in the teaching of writing the deployment of neutrality as a political motif in the public discourse shaping policy in higher education and the performativity of individual instructors in a variety of institutional contexts The collection provides clarity on the contours around defining neutrality depth in understanding how neutrality operates differently in various institutional settings and nuance in the levels and degrees of neutrality or what is meant by it in the teaching of writing Higher education itself and its stakeholders are continually exploring the role of teachers in the classroom and the extent to which it is possible or ethical to engage in neutrality Amplifying voices from teachers in underrepresented positions and institutions in discussions of teacher ideology On Teacher Neutrality shapes the discourse around these topics both within the writing classroom and throughout higher education The book offers a rich array of practices pedagogies and theories that will help ground instructors and posits a way forward toward better dialogue and connections with the various stakeholders of higher education in the United States Contributors Tristan Abbott Kelly Blewett Meaghan Brewer Christopher Michael Brown Chad Chisholm Jessica Clements Jason C Evans Heather Fester Romeo Garc a Yndalecio Isaac Hinojosa Mara Holt Erika Johnson Tawny LeBouef Tullia Lauren F Lichty Adam Pacton Daniel P Richards Patricia Roberts Miller Karen Rosenberg Allison L Rowland Robert Samuels David P Stubblefield Jennifer Thomas John Trimbur National Healing Claude Hurlbert,2013-02-01 In National Healing author Claude Hurlbert persuasively relates nationalism to institutional racism and contends that these are both symptoms of a national ill health afflicting American higher education and found even in the field of writing studies Teachers and scholars even in progressive fields like composition are unwittingly at odds with their own most liberatory purposes he says and he advocates consciously broadening our understanding of rhetoric and writing instruction to include rhetorical traditions of non Western cultures Threading a personal narrative of his own experiences as a student professor and citizen through a wide ranging discussion of theory pedagogy and philosophy in the writing classroom Hurlbert weaves a vision that moves beyond simple polemic and simplistic multiculturalism National Healing offers a compelling new aesthetic epistemological and rhetorical configuration Distance Learning Michael Simonson,Charles Schlosser,2015-12-01 Distance Learning is for leaders practitioners and decision makers in the fields of distance learning e learning telecommunications and related areas It is a professional journal with applicable information for those involved with providing instruction to all kinds of learners of all ages using telecommunications technologies of all types Stories are written by practitioners for practitioners with the intent of providing usable information and ideas Articles are accepted from authors new and experienced with interesting and important information about the effective practice of distance teaching and learning Distance Learning is published quarterly Each issue includes eight to ten articles and three to four columns including the highly regarded And Finally column covering recent important issues in the field and written by Distance Learning editor Michael Simonson Articles are written by practitioners from various countries and locations nationally and internationally Distance Learning is an official publication of the United States Distance Learning Association

Out in the Center Harry C. Denny, Robert Mundy, Liliana M. Naydan, Richard Sévère, Anna Sicari, 2019-03-01 Out in the Center explores the personal struggles of tutors faculty and administrators in writing center communities as they negotiate the interplay between public controversies and features of their own intersectional identities These essays address how race ethnicity gender sexuality class faith multilingualism and learning differences along with their intersections challenge those who inhabit writing centers and engage in their conversations A diverse group of contributors interweaves personal experience with writing center theory and critical race theory as well as theories on the politics and performance of identity In doing so Out in the Center extends upon the writing center corpus to disrupt and reimagine conventional approaches to writing center theory and practice Out in the Center proposes that practitioners benefit from engaging in dialogue about identity to better navigate writing center work work that informs the local and carries forth a social and cultural impact that stretches well beyond academic institutions Contributors Allia Abdullah Matta Nancy Alvarez Hadi Banat Tammy S Conard Salvo Michele Eodice Rochell Isaac Sami Korgan Ella Leviyeva Alexandria Lockett Talisha Haltiwanger Morrison Anna Rita Napoleone Beth A Towle Elizabeth Weaver Tim Zmudka Political Literacy in Composition and Rhetoric Donald Lazere, 2015-07-20 In Political Literacy in Composition and Rhetoric Donald Lazere calls for revival of NCTE resolutions in the 1970s for teaching the critical reading listening viewing and thinking skills necessary to enable students to cope with the persuasive techniques in political statements advertising entertainment and news and explores the reasons these goals have been eclipsed in composition studies over recent decades Obstacles to those goals have included the emphasis in the profession on basic and first year writing at the expense of more advanced study in argumentative rhetoric and on the privileging of students personal writing over critical study of both academic and political discourse Lazere further argues that theorists who legitimately champion students pluralistic local communities sometimes fail to recognize that liberal education can enable students to grow beyond their home cultures to critical awareness of national and international politics Finally he argues that the fixation in recent composition studies on liberally inclined students and communities on the margins has eclipsed attention to the conservative conformity long prevalent in mainstream American society and education His proposals for curriculum and pedagogy seek to introduce students to a more highly informed cogent and open ended level of debate between the political left and right The Battles of Texas Nate Kreuter, Mark Garrett Longaker, 2025-01-07 The 1980s were a consequential decade for universities The marketization of higher education the adjunctification of labor and culture wars over curriculum transformed the landscape in a short period of time The Battles of Texas traces the lived consequences of this upheaval by focusing on one influential institution the writing program at the University of Texas at Austin Drawing from university records newspaper archives and present day interviews Nate Kreuter and Mark Garrett Longaker provide an on the ground perspective of the radical creation of UT Austin s writing program and the subsequent events that made national headlines the mass firing of lecturers in 1985 the national debate over multicultural content in the first year curriculum and the divorce of the writing program from the English Department in 1992 Despite these pressures however the authors also reveal how writing program administrators at UT Austin exerted their own agency to resist economic and political forces in service of their students and adjunct lecturers By highlighting the parallels between the 1980s and current labor and political pressures in higher education The Battles of Texas offers a strategic perspective for academics and administrators today Combining a narrative institutional history with a public digital archive searchable and arranged in exhibits and in chronological annals The Battles of Texas provides academics with the resources they need to survive in times of rapid transition

Beyond Fitting In Kelly Ritter, 2023-02-03 Beyond Fitting In interrogates how the cultural capital and lived experiences of first generation college students inform literacy studies and the writing centered classroom Essays written by scholar teachers in the field of rhetoric and composition discuss best practices for teaching first generation students in writing classrooms centers programs and other environments The collection considers how first gen students of different demographics interact with and affect literacy instruction in a variety of public and private rural and urban schools offering two or four year programs including Hispanic serving institutions historically Black colleges and universities and public research universities By exploring the experiences of students teachers writing program administrators and writing center directors the volume gives readers an inside view of the practices and structures that shape the literacy of first generation students

Toward an Anti-Capitalist Composition James Rushing Daniel, 2022-08-15 In Toward an Anti Capitalist Composition James Rushing Daniel argues that capitalism is eminently responsible for the entangled catastrophes of the twenty first century precarity economic and racial inequality the decline of democratic culture and climate change and that it must accordingly become a central focus in the teaching of writing Delving into pedagogy research and institutional work he calls for an ambitious reimagining of composition as a discipline opposed to capitalism s excesses Drawing on an array of philosophers political theorists and activists Daniel outlines an anti capitalist approach informed by the common a concept theorized by Pierre Dardot and Christian Laval as a solidaristic response to capitalism rooted in inventive political action Rather than relying upon claims of membership or ownership the common supports radical collective acts of remaking that comprehensively reject capitalist logics Applying this approach to collaborative writing student debt working culture and digital writing Daniel demonstrates how the writing classroom may be oriented toward capitalist harms and prepare students to critique and resist them He likewise employs the common to theorize how anti capitalist interventions beyond the classroom could challenge institutional privatization and oppose the adjunctification of the professoriate Arguing that composition scholars have long neglected marketization and corporate power Toward an Anti Capitalist Composition extends a case for adopting a resolute anti capitalist stance in the field and for remaking the university as a site of common work
