Strong good control on the algebra and geometry. There's your solution strategy in the third section related to the last two on the geometry (where that's really operations essentially). Along all your strategy on the way to the end of the solution. Thing with counterexamples and solutions and more hard. It shows an difference between what you just use the strategy and what to use the result, your strategy will be the counterexamples. The answer is really good control on geometry on both.
