

THE SPECIAL PLACE

Today you are going to write a narrative or story.

The idea of your story is "The Special Place"

What location was so special you couldn't tell your best friend, neighbour or even mum and dad?
How would your main character keep the location hush-hush?

Think about:

- * The characters and where they are
- * The complication or problem
- * How the story will end

Remember to:

- * Plan your story before you start
- * Write in sentences with correct punctuation
- * Pay attention to spelling, paragraphing
and the words you use
- * Check and edit your writing when finished

"Come to my special place. Where it's just you and me. I'll be waiting..."

Developing Narrative Comprehension Ute Bohnacker, Natalia Gagarina, 2020-12-15 Comprehension of texts and understanding of questions is a cornerstone of successful human communication Whilst reading comprehension has been thoroughly investigated in the last decade there is surprisingly little research on children s comprehension of picture stories particularly for bilinguals This can be partially explained by the lack of cross culturally robust cross linguistic instruments targeting early narration This book presents an inference based model of narrative comprehension and a tool that grew out of a large scale European project on multilingualism Covering a range of language settings the book uses the Multilingual Assessment Instrument for Narratives to answer the question which narrative comprehension skills bilingual children can be expected to master at a certain age and explores how such comprehension is affected or not affected by linguistic and extra linguistic factors Linking theory to method the book will appeal to researchers in linguistics and psychology and graduate students interested in narrative multilingualism and language acquisition

Narrative Development in a Multilingual Context Ludo Th Verhoeven, Sven Strömqvist, 2001-01-01 In this volume the results of a number of empirical studies of the development of narrative construction within a multilingual context are presented and discussed It is explored what operating principles underlie the process of narrative production in L1 and L2 Developmental relations between form and function will be studied across a broad range of functional categories such as temporality perspective connectivity and narrative coherence Moreover a variety of language contact situations is considered with broad variation in the typological distances between the languages in order to enable cross linguistic comparison The analysis of learner data in various cross linguistic settings may thus offer new information on the role of the structural properties of unrelated languages on the process of narrative acquisition In the present volume an attempt is also made to find out how transfer from one language to the other is facilitated Finally the effects of input on narrative construction in children s first and second language are examined in several studies

Aphasiology Patrick Doyle, 2002-05-02 The First Annual Clinical Aphasiology Conference CAC was convened in Albuquerque in 1971 It was attended by a small group of primarily practicing clinicians dedicated to meeting the human service needs of their clients while recognizing the importance of contributing to the collective knowledge base of their discipline by providing empirical evidence supporting the links between their clinical interventions and outcomes Thirteen years later Barlow Hays and Nelson 1984 would describe in their now seminal publication The Scientist Practitioner an integrated model of applied behavioral research its strategies and methods and the role of the practitioner in the acquisition of knowledge directed toward improving clinical procedures and outcomes By this time 13 Volumes of CAC publications had already been published and comprised the single largest source of applied clinical data addressing the nature of aphasia and its clinical management These documents represented the product of the scientist practitioner model in action prior to its formalization by Barlow et al and provide a rich source of evidence supporting the efficacy of aphasia rehabilitation Unfortunately these and subsequent CAC publications remain unavailable to the larger clinical and scientific community due to their limited distribution Much has changed in the ensuing years Indeed many of the healthcare delivery systems in which aphasia rehabilitation is now practiced in 2002 severely restrict the frequency and duration of clinical services Increasingly practitioners are required to be more accountable for their clinical outcomes and to measure behavioral change in units that represent meaningful differences to consumers Now more than ever it is critical that the scientist practitioner model be promoted in order to better serve individuals with aphasia and to further advance the collective knowledge and evidence base of the discipline Now more than ever the available evidence needs to be disseminated as broadly as possible These goals are in keeping with the mission of CAC as envisioned by its founding members and remain the focused commitment of its many participants steering committee and publication board In keeping with these goals the papers that appear in this special edition of Aphasiology were selected based upon their theoretical importance clinical relevance and scientific merit from among the many platform and poster presentations comprising the 31st Annual Clinical Aphasiology Conference held in Santa Fe New Mexico in 2001 Each paper was peer reviewed by the Editorial Consultants and Associate Editors acknowledged herein consistent with the standards of Aphasiology and the rigours of merit review that represent this indexed archival journal that is accessible to clinicians and scientists all over the world An Open Book: What and How Young Children Learn From Picture and Story Books Jessica S. Horst, Carmel Houston-Price, 2016-01-21 Looking at and listening to picture and story books is a ubiquitous activity frequently enjoyed by many young children and their parents Well before children can read for themselves they are able to learn from books Looking at and listening to books increases children's general knowledge understanding about the world and promotes language acquisition This collection of papers demonstrates the breadth of information pre reading children learn from books and increases our understanding of the social and cognitive mechanisms that support this learning Our hope is that this Research Topic eBook will be useful for researchers as well as educational practitioners and parents who are interested in optimizing children's learning analysis questions to evaluate understanding of case studies Suggested activities and readings Teaching New Literacies in Grades 4-6 Barbara Moss,Diane Lapp,2009-11-24 Upper elementary students encounter a sometimes dizzying array of traditional and nontraditional texts both in and outside of the classroom This practical handbook helps teachers in grades 4 6 harness the instructional potential of fiction poetry and plays informational texts graphic novels digital storytelling Web based and multimodal texts hip hop advertisements math problems and many other types of texts Twenty four complete lessons promote critical literacy skills such as comprehending analyzing and synthesizing information and using writing to communicate new ideas and pose questions Snapshots of diverse classrooms are accompanied by clear explanations of the research base for instruction in each genre Ready to use reproducibles are included Assessing Grammar Martin J. Ball,David Crystal,Paul Fletcher,2012-03-08 This collection is a resource book for those working with language disordered clients in a range of languages It collects together versions of the well known Language Assessment Remediation Screening Procedure LARSP prepared for different languages Starting with the original version for English the book then presents versions in more than a dozen other languages Some of these are likely to be encountered as home languages of clients by speech language therapists and pathologists working in the UK Ireland the US and Australia and New Zealand Others are included because they are major languages found where speech language pathology services are provided but where no grammatical profile already exists Neuropsychological Studies of Nonfocal Brain Damage Harry Whitaker,2012-12-06 In summary considerable controversy and research have been generated from the automatic effortful distinction Hasher and Zacks 1979 initially stated that all manipulations e g practice individual differences such as age orienting instructions must produce null effects in order to satisfy the criteria that a process is automatic However Zacks et al 1984 have more recently noted that automatic processes may range in degree from relative insensitivity to task and subject variables e g frequency processing to those that are more vulnerable to disruptive effects e g temporal processing A review of the literature reveals that individuals are sensitive to frequency information even if manipulations alter the slope of the judgments Perhaps the application of dual task methodology to the measurement of capacity demands will be useful in classifying processes along an attentional continuum Moreover there has been a tendency to dichotomize automatic effortful processes rather than to characterize them as ranging from low to high attentional demands Recent evidence Maki Ostby 1987 suggests that attention may be important only in the initial early stages of processing frequency information Therefore a major difference that may emerge between automatic and effortful processing could be the degree of sustained attention required from individuals In the following section we review the findings obtained in the application of the automatic effortful framework to the elderly and neurological psychiatric populations Assessing Multilingual Children Sharon Armon-Lotem,Jan de Jong (professore universitario.),Natalia Meir,2015 Second language learners often produce language forms resembling those of children with Specific Language Impairment SLI At present professionals working in language assessment and education have only limited diagnostic instruments to distinguish language impaired migrant children from those who will eventually catch up with their monolingual peers This book presents a comprehensive set of tools for assessing the linguistic abilities of bilingual children It aims to disentangle effects of bilingualism from those of SLI making use of both models of bilingualism and models of language impairment The book s methods oriented focus will make it an essential handbook for practitioners who look for measures which could be adapted to a variety of languages in diverse communities as well as academic researchers

Understanding Loss Judith Murray, 2015-09-16 Loss and consequent grief permeates nearly every life changing event from death to health concerns to dislocation to relationship breakdown to betrayal to natural disaster to faith issues Yet while we know about particular events of loss independently we know very little about a psychology of loss that draws many adversities together This universal experience of loss as a concept in its own right sheds light on so much of the work we do in the care of others This book develops a new overarching framework to understand loss and grief taking into account both pathological and wellbeing approaches to the subject Drawing on international and cross disciplinary research Judith Murray highlights nine common themes of loss helping us to understand how it is experienced These themes are then used to develop a practice framework for structuring assessment and intervention systematically Throughout the book this generic approach is highlighted through discussing its use in different loss events such as bereavement trauma chronic illness and with children or older people Having been used in areas as diverse as child protection palliative care and refugee care the framework can be tailored to a range of needs and levels of care Caring for people experiencing loss is an integral part of the work of helping professions whether it is explicitly part of their work such as in counselling or implicit as in social work nursing teaching medicine and community work This text is an important guide for anyone working in these areas Values And Vision In Primary Education Taylor, Kathleen, Woolley, Richard, 2013-07-01 This book provides teachers with scaffolding to develop reflective practice moving towards an evolving philosophy of education
