School Leadership in the Context of Standards-Based Reform Louis Volante, 2012-05-16 Although standards based reform emerged in the United States and the United Kingdom the idea has spread across the world as an approach to systemic reform It might appear that there is a world wide tsunami of standards based reform that will standardize and homogenize the educational system across the globe This volume makes it very clear however that there is no one approach to standards based reform and countries change there is a danger in paying attention to its evolution and impact in only one context That s what makes this volume so valuable Louis Volante has drawn together descriptions from a wide range of countries all involved in large scale reform and using standards and assessments as part of their process What becomes very obvious is that the language may be the same but the words reflect different contexts and can represent very different ideals values and processes I m sure you will find this book as interesting and challenging as I have a gem that pushes your thinking and does not allow readers to remain neutral Lorna Earl

Youth in Canadian Politics Kathy Megyery, 1991-01-01 When is a person mature enough to vote Would lowering the voting age compromise political processes Would giving people the vote stir them to greater involvement What would be the effect on other laws affecting youth What are the Charter implications The studies in this volume uncover a wide range of opinion about young people and their involvement in politics The author point to the diversity of perceptions about the attitudes and attributes of youth even among young people themselves In considering the appropriate age for the vote they cast light on the overall status of young Canadians in terms of rights laws institutions and public opinion Raymond Hudon and colleagues study political involvement by Quebecois youth Patrice Garant investigates legal and Charter implications of lowering the voting age Jon Pammett and John Myles argue that lowering the voting ages to 16 would be a low risk initiative All concur that generalizing about 16 to 18 year olds is as difficult and questionable as making sweeping statements about any other age defined sociological group

Secondary School External Examination Systems Barend Vlaardingerbroek, Neil Taylor, 2009 Summative assessment has been a contentious issue in educational circles for several decades particularly high stakes assessment events which arise at various junctures of the school cycle especially those at the end of it The French Baccalaureat and English A Levels and their numerous clones throughout the francophone and anglophone worlds are household names and represent milestone events in people s lives as their outcomes are principal determinants of young people's future prospects. These examinations are external; they are devised, conducted and processed by agencies outside the schools, usually ministerial examination units. As such, they act as blind arbiters of student achievement, providing the proverbial level playing field which ensures the comparability of outcomes. In the pyramidal school structures of yesteryear, examinations acted as filters regulating the progression of pupils to subsequent tiers of formal education. Exit points occurred from primary school level up from where unsuccessful candidates could enter the labour force and/or embark on occupationally specific further education and training. With the modernisation of the labour market and an ever higher social demand for access to higher levels of formal education, the filtering function of examinations at lower levels of schooling has been gradually eroded while burgeoning numbers of students at the upper secondary level have brought about reforms that include curricular diversification and sometimes radical overhauls of terminating assessment systems, including the modification and in some instances abandonment of external examinations. This edited volume brings together the experiences of twenty examination systems from around the world to show how these dynamic entities have adapted over time to the changing context of schooling. Following an introduction by Stephen P. Heyneman of World Bank repute, there are sixteen chapters presenting Country Case Studies which have been written up under common subheadings, thereby highlighting the comparative nature of the work and facilitating cross-referencing. The subsequent four chapters elaborate on the theme of external examinations beyond national borders, including a contribution by the International Baccalaureate Organisation. A defining feature of the work is the attention it pays to what it calls the nuts and bolts of external examinations, from question setting to grading procedures. These are, it is argued, instrumental in nurturing and maintaining public confidence in external examinations. The book will be of immense value to people involved in educational policy studies, especially strategic educational planning, as well as those directly concerned with formal assessment. The work has been written to appeal to a wide audience of informed persons; it is accessible to teachers and interested laypeople as well as to academics.

Advanced Methods in Automatic Item Generation Mark J. Gierl, Hollis Lai, Vasily Tanygin, 2021-05-18. Advanced Methods in Automatic Item Generation is an up-to-date survey of the growing research on automatic item generation (AIG) in today's technology-enhanced educational measurement sector. As test administration procedures increasingly integrate digital media and Internet use, assessment stakeholders from graduate students to scholars to industry professionals have numerous opportunities to study and create different types of tests and test items. This comprehensive analysis offers thorough coverage of the theoretical foundations and concepts that define AIG, as well as the practical considerations required to produce and apply large numbers of useful test items. Research in Education, 1973.
