Detroit Lewis D. Solomon, 2018-02-06 As America s most dysfunctional big city Detroit faces urban decay population losses fractured neighborhoods with impoverished households an uneducated unskilled workforce too few jobs a shrinking tax base budgetary shortfalls and inadequate public schools Looking to the city s future Lewis D Solomon focuses on pathways to revitalizing Detroit while offering a cautiously optimistic viewpoint Solomon urges an economic development strategy one anchored in

Detroit balancing its municipal and public school district's budgets improving the academic performance of its public schools rebuilding its tax base and looking to the private sector to create jobs He advocates an overlapping tripartite political economy one that builds on the foundation of an appropriately sized public sector and a for profit private sector with the latter fueling economic growth Although he acknowledges that Detroit faces a long road to implementation Solomon sketches a vision of a revitalized economic sector based on two key assets vacant land and an unskilled labor force The book is divided into four distinct parts The first provides background and context with a brief overview of the city's numerous challenges The second examines Detroit's immediate efforts to overcome its fiscal crisis It proposes ways Detroit can be put on the path to financial stability and sustainability The third considers how Detroit can implement a new approach to job creation one focused on the for profit private sector not the public sector In the fourth and final part Solomon argues that residents should pursue a strategy based on the actions of individuals and community groups rather than looking to large scale projects

Pacheco-Torgal, Joao Labrincha, Luisa F. Cabeza, Claes-Göran Granqvist, 2015-02-27 Climate change is one of the most important environmental problems faced by Planet Earth The majority of CO2 emissions come from burning fossil fuels for energy production and improvements in energy efficiency shows the greatest potential for any single strategy to abate global greenhouse gas GHG emissions from the energy sector Energy related emissions account for almost 80% of the EU s total greenhouse gas emissions The building sector is the largest energy user responsible for about 40% of the EU s total final energy consumption In Europe the number of installed air conditioning systems has increased 500% over the last 20 years but in that same period energy cooling needs have increased more than 20 times The increase in energy cooling needs relates to the current higher living and working standards In urban environments with low outdoor air quality the general case this means that in summer time one cannot count on natural ventilation to reduce cooling needs Do not forget the synergistic effect between heat waves and air pollution which means that outdoor air quality is worse in the summer aggravating cooling needs Over the next few years this phenomenon will become much worse because more people will live in cities more than 2 billion by 2050 and global warming will aggravate cooling needs An overview of materials to lessen the impact of urban heat islands Excellent coverage of building materials to reduce air conditioning needs Innovative products discussed such as Thermo and Electrochromic materials
