Szpunar, 2016 Episodic memory is a major area of research in psychology Initially viewed as a distinct store of information derived from experienced episodes episodic memory is understood today as a form of mental time travel into the personal past Recent research has revealed striking similarities between episodic memory past oriented mental time travel and future oriented mental time travel FMTT Seeing the Future Theoretical Perspectives on Future Oriented Mental Time Travel brings together leading contributors in both empirical and theoretical disciplines to present the first interdisciplinary look at the human ability to imagine future scenarios Chapters focus on the challenging conceptual and theoretical questions raised by FMTT covering themes such as varieties of future oriented cognition relationships between FMTT and episodic memory subjective temporality in FMTT the self in FMTT and functional evolutionary and comparative developmental and clinical perspectives on FMTT With its focus on the conceptual issues at the heart of fast developing research on FMTT this edited volume will serve graduate students to senior scholars working on or interested in FMTT and related areas as a synthesis of current theoretical thinking and a source of questions for future FMTT research

Memory, Consciousness and the Brain Endel Tulving, 2013-05-13 Memory and consciousness have been objects of fascination to psychologists and other brain scientists for over one hundred years Because of the complexity of the two topics however and despite great efforts spent on their study the progress in their understanding over most of this time has been rather slow Recently thanks to new techniques and to changing pre theoretical orientations the study of the role of the brain in memory and consciousness has received an immense boost and has become a central focus of research activity by thousands of researchers worldwide The volume reviews recent progress on our understanding of memory consciousness and the brain and identifies a number of acute outstanding problems The purpose of the volume based on a conference in Tallinn is to look to the future and not simply to share knowledge from ongoing research In this sense the volume does not contain a comprehensive overview of the field but rather showcases a selection of exciting ideas in cognitive neuroscience Contributors include some of the world's best known cognitive brain scientists who have greatly contributed to our understanding of memory as a relation between the brain and the mind as well as a number of highly promising younger researchers in the field Memory Consciousness and the Brain will be essential reading for anyone interested in the latest cutting edge thinking at the interface of these topics and in the future directions in which it may take us Varieties of Memory and Consciousness Henry L. Roediger, 1989

Time and Memory Christoph Hoerl, Teresa McCormack, 2001 The capacity to represent and think about time and the capacity to recollect the past are two of the most fundamental and least understood aspects of human cognition and consciousness This book throws new light on central issues in the study of the mind by uniting for the first time psychological and philosophical approaches dealing with the connection between temporal representation and memory Fifteen specially written essays by leading psychologists and philosophers investigate the way in which time is represented in memory and the role memory plays in our ability to reason about time They offer insights into current theories of memory processes and of the mechanisms and cognitive abilities underlying temporal judgements and draw out fundamental issues concerning the phenomenology and epistemology of memory and our understanding of time The chapters are arranged into four sections each focused on one area of current research I Keeping Track of Time and Temporal Representation II Memory Awareness and the Past III Memory and Experience IV Knowledge and the Past The Epistemology and Metaphysics of Time A general introduction gives an overview of the topics discussed and makes explicit central themes which unify the different philosophical and psychological approaches

On the Analysis of the Memory Consciousness for Pictures of Familiar

Objects Fred Kuhlmann, 1907 Memory Richard F. Thompson, Stephen A. Madigan, 2013-10-24 Memory is perhaps the most extraordinary phenomenon in the natural world Every person's brain holds millions of bits of information in long term storage This vast memory store includes our extensive vocabulary and knowledge of language the tremendous and unique variety of facts we've amassed all the skills we've learned from walking and talking to musical and athletic performance many of the emotions we feel and the continuous sensations feelings and understandings of the world we term consciousness Without memory there can be no mind as we understand it Focusing on cutting edge research in behavioral science and neuroscience Memory is a primer of our current scientific understanding of the mechanics of memory and learning Over the past two decades memory research has accelerated and we have seen an explosion of new knowledge about the brain For example there now exists a wide ranging and successful applied science devoted exclusively to the study of memory that has yielded better procedures for eliciting valid recollections in legal settings and improved the diagnosis and treatment of memory disorders Everyone fascinated by the scope and power of the human brain will find this book unforgettable

Zones of Re-membering Don Gifford,2011-03 Don Gifford in Zones of Re membering shows clearly thoughtfully yet entertainingly how no one explanation will account for the depth and complexity of human experience and its grounding in Memory Because consciousness is a function of Memory life without Memory is no life at all as Alzheimer s all too frequently demonstrates Both our individual and collective Memory is stored in the arts he contends which in turn provide a way of knowing and of nourishing Memory and consciousness Memory like language is never really stable or accurate but appears as narrative and these narratives collectively form our entire culture For Gifford the profoundest explorer of the human consciousness time and memory is James Joyce and in its range of reference wit and humanity the spirit of Joyce permeates this book The Time of Our Lives David Couzens Hoy,2012-01-13 A study of the emergence in post Kantian continental philosophy of a focus on the lived experience of temporality The project of all philosophy may be to gain reconciliation with time even if not every philosopher has dealt with time expressly A confrontation with the passing of time and with human finitude runs through the history of philosophy as an ultimate concern In this genealogy of the concept of temporality David Hoy examines the emergence in a post Kantian continental philosophy of a focus on the lived experience of the time of our lives rather than on the time of the universe The purpose is to see how phenomenological and poststructuralist philosophers have tried to locate the source of temporality how they have analyzed time s passing and how they have depicted our relation to time once it has been in a Proustian sense regained Hoy engages with competing theoretical tactics for reconciling us to our fleeting temporality drawing on work by Kant Heidegger Hegel Husserl Merleau Ponty Nietzsche Gadamer Sartre Bourdieu Foucault Bergson Deleuze i ek and Derrida Hoy considers four existential strategies for coping with the apparent flow of temporality including Proust s passive and Walter Benjamin s active reconciliation through memory i ek s critique of poststructuralist politics Foucault s confrontation with the temporality of power and Deleuze s account of Aion and Chronos He concludes by exploring whether a dual temporalization could be what constitutes the singular time of our lives

Memory & Consciousness Arthur Robinson,1913 Part One: The Analysis and Cause of the Existence of Memory; Part Two: Analysis and Cause of Unconsciousness and Sleep Lysander Salmon Richards,1920 Time and Free Will Henri Bergson,2019-11-19 In Time and Free Will Henri Bergson explores the intricate relationship between time and human consciousness challenging the prevailing mechanistic views of the universe of his time Through a philosophical lens Bergson distinguishes between the quantitative measurement of time as understood by physics and the qualitative experience of time which he terms duration dur e Employing a unique narrative style that intertwines rigorous argumentation with vivid examples from perception and memory he invites readers to consider how our subjective experiences shape our understanding of freedom and agency within the framework of temporality This work is groundbreaking as it lays the foundation for future existential and phenomenological inquiries into human existence Bergson a prominent French philosopher of the late 19th and early 20th centuries was significantly influenced by the intellectual climate of his time including debates in physics psychology and philosophy His academic background combined with his interest in the nature of consciousness led him to investigate the fundamental questions of time and free will Bergson s emphasis on instinct intuition and creativity in philosophical thought paved the way for his innovative approach in this seminal text Time and Free Will is essential reading for anyone interested in philosophy psychology and the foundations of modern thought By engaging with Bergson s insights readers will gain a deeper understanding of the complexities of human experience and the profound implications this has for notions of free will and personal responsibility This book is not just a theoretical exploration it is a call to rethink the very nature of time as experienced by human beings The Role of Consciousness in Memory Colin R. Flint,1979 Varieties of Memory and Consciousness Henry L. Roediger,1989

Consciousness, Perception, and Short-Term Memory Henry F. Shevlin,2016 The long and short of mental time travel-- self-projection over time-scales large and small James M. Broadway,Claire M. Zedelius,Jonathan W. Schooler,Simon Grondin,2015-07-02 Researchers working in many fields of psychology and neuroscience are interested in the temporal structure of experience as well as the experience of time at scales of a few milliseconds up to a few seconds as well as days months years and beyond This Research Topic supposes that broadly speaking the field of time psychology can be organized by distinguishing between perceptual and conceptual time scales Dealing with conceptual time mental time travel also called mental simulation self projection episodic semantic memory prospection foresight allows humans and perhaps other animals to imagine and plan events and experiences in their personal futures based in large part on memories of their personal pasts as well as general knowledge Moreover contents of human language and thought are fundamentally organized by a temporal dimension enmeshed with it so thoroughly that it is usually expressible only through spatial metaphors But what might such notions have to do with experienced durations of events lasting milliseconds up to a few seconds during the so called present moment of perception action cycle time This Research Topic is organized around the general premise that by considering how mental time travel might scale down to time perception and vice versa no less progress and integrative synthesis within and across scientific domains might be facilitated Bipolar configurations of future and past orientations of the self may be repeated in parallel across conceptual and perceptual time scales subsumed by a general Janus like feedforward feedback system for goal pursuit As an example it is notable that the duality of prospection and semantic episodic memory operating at conceptual time scales has an analogue in perception action cycle time namely the interplay of anticipatory attention and working memory Authors from all areas of psychology and neuroscience are encouraged to submit articles of any format accepted by the journal Original Research Methods Hypothesis Theory Reviews etc which might speak to questions about time and temporal phenomena at long and or short time scales
