Mental Notes From The Brink Of Reality English Edition:

Catalog of the Kristine Mann Library of the Analytical Psychology Club of New York, Inc Kristine Mann Library, 1978

Glimpses of Glory Richard L. Greaves, 2002 This is a major reinterpretation of John Bunyan each of whose works including the posthumous is analyzed in its immediate historical context The author draws on recent literature on depression to demonstrate that Bunyan suffered from this mood disorder as a young man and then used this experience to help mold his literary works

Schrödinger's Cat Smile Sergey Suprun, Anatoly Suprun, Victor Petrenko, 2022-10-07 The book presents a multidisciplinary analysis of the context of quantum physics experiments and the function of the human mind that makes it possible to demonstrate that an object based model of reality formed at the level of the unconscious is the basis of our worldview The consciousness experiences a time flow because of the specific features of perception in the form of a model with a sequential fixation of events Together with the need to relate objects in terms of the model this generates a space time representation of the world around us Acceptance of a mental character of our construct of reality allows for resolution of the problems in quantum physics and its paradoxes thereby opening the way to an insight into reality The presented material is organized in a specific order to facilitate the reader's understanding First the fact that if there are no objects in the area of quantum mechanics then they belong to the corresponding model rather than the reality is proved by case studies of the most discussed and relevant paradoxes of quantum physics The authors consider a topological variant in constructing an object based space that describes the physical properties of an object that are the most verified in science and describable with mathematical relations The functionality of the proposed construct is tested by deriving the laws of conservation of energy and momentum in a relativistic form The book is oriented towards experts in physics and psychology advanced students and readers interested in state of the art science and the philosophy connected to it

The Emotional Brain and the Guilty Mind Federica Coppola, 2021-02-11 This book seeks to reframe the normative narrative of the culpable person in American criminal law through a more humanising lens It embraces such a reframed narrative to revise the criteria of the current voluntarist architecture of culpability and to advance a paradigm of punishment that positions social rehabilitation as its core principle The book constructs this narrative by considering behavioural and neuroscientific insights into the functions of emotions and socio environmental factors within moral behaviour in social settings Hence it suggests culpability notions that reflect a more contextualised view of human conduct and argues that such revised notions are better suited to the principle of personal guilt Furthermore it suggests a model of punishment that values the dynamic power of change of individuals and acknowledges the importance of social relationships and positive environments to foster patterns of social re integration Ultimately this book argues that the potential adoption of the proposed models of culpability and punishment which view people through a more comprehensive lens may be a key factor for turning criminal justice into a less punitive more inclusionary and non stigmatising system
