Brown V. Board of Education Tim McNeese, 2009 Today integration is as much a part of America's public school system as Friday night football and complaints about cafeteria food But America has not always opened the doors of its schools to all races School integration occurred through the tireless efforts of countless men and women some white many black who took their ideals and dreams about America and what it represents and worked to make them not only the law of the land but acceptable to the vast majority of citizens Here is the story of the relentless legal campaign launched by the NAACP civil rights organization and a persistent black lawyer named Thurgood Marshall and how it changed history forever Brown v Board of Education was one of the most important Supreme Court decisions of the 20th century Brown v. Board of Education, Topeka, Kansas, 1954 KaaVonja Hinton, 2010-09 After slavery ended former slaves gained greater access to education and free schools became available to children and adults Over time free schooling for African Americans in the South began to decrease and the South became completely segregated To make matters worse in the court case Plessy v Ferguson the Supreme Court ruled that segregation was legal Believing the ruling was unconstitutional the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People NAACP hired lawyers like Charles Hamilton Houston and Thurgood Marshall to fight against segregation in schools The NAACP started to look for African American parents who had children in public schools that were not equal to white schools The five cases that make up Brown v Board of Education of Topeka Kansas were heard by the Supreme Court The Court's 1954 ruling completely changed the direction of American education
