The Evolution of Economic Development in Africa Francis K. Mbroh, 2021-07-11 Within the theoretical framework of the trade growth and structural transformation growth nexuses the book examines the evolution of African goods and service trade in terms of value and share of global commerce relative to other regions during the period 1948-2017. It also identifies and discusses discernible changes in the composition and structure of African exports and imports between 1995 and 2015 and their implications for economic development in Africa. The study attributes Africa's lagged trade performance during the period primarily to sub-optimal macroeconomic policies and lack of bold export development policies and initiatives among other factors. It also offers an incisive discussion of several inhibitions to the structural transformation of African exports and imports including lack of finance, globalization, tariff and non-tariff measures in global markets. The discussion of the evolution of African trade during the period 1948-2017 based on statistics and publications of international organizations including the UNCTAD, the World Bank and the African Development Bank among others is the first of its kind in terms of scope and depth of review of African trade. The analyses of cross-border trade during 1948-2017 and their implications for Africa's economic development prospects constitute a useful reference material for academics and students of African and development studies and African and international policymakers.

Walking Inside Out Tina Richardson, 2015-07-07 Walking Inside Out is the first text that attempts to merge the work of literary and artist practitioners with academics to critically explore the state of psychogeography today. Through a variety of case studies it offers a British perspective of international spaces from the British metropolis to the post-communist European city. By situating the current strand of psychogeography within its historical, political and creative context along with careful consideration of the challenges it faces, Walking Inside Out offers a vision for the future of the discipline.

Urbanization with Chinese Characteristics: The Hukou System and Migration Kam Wing Chan, 2018-04-19 Many agree that rapid urbanization in China in the late 20th and early 21st centuries is a mega-process significantly reshaping China and the global economy. China's urbanization also carries a certain mystique which has long fascinated generations of scholars and journalists alike. As it has turned out, many of the asserted Chinese feats are mostly fancied claims or gross misinterpretations of statistics. For example, there does exist, however, an urbanization that displays rather uncommon Chinese characteristics that remain to inadequately understood Building on his three decades of careful research Professor Kam Wing Chan expertly dissects the complexity of China's hukou system migration urbanization and their interrelationships in this set of journal articles published in the last ten years These works range from seminal papers on Chinese urban definitions and statistics and broad perspective analysis of the hukou system of its first semi centennial to examinations of migration trends and geography and critical evaluations of China's 2014 urbanization blueprint and hukou reform plan This convenient assemblage contains many of Chan's recent important works Together they also form a relatively coherent set on this topic They are essential readings to anyone serious about gaining a true understanding of the prodigious urbanization in contemporary China

Muserref Yetim, 2016-06-28 Transboundary watercourses account for an estimated 60 per cent of global freshwater flow and support the livelihoods of hundreds of millions of people worldwide Yet the indeterminate status of water rights in many international watercourses presents a problem and many attempts to resolve water rights issue have failed Knowing how and where negotiations fail is essential if successful resolution is to be achieved Muserref Yetim's important book seeks to illustrate a means to the peaceful resolution of natural resource based conflicts Through a detailed study of the Tigris Euphrates water conflict involving Turkey Syria and Iraq countries of vital security interest to the world at large the author clarifies the collective action dilemmas confronting Middle Eastern watercourses and reveals the bargaining bottlenecks where negotiations fail She develops an original framework that explains bargaining failures and proposes conditions for creating a new property rights regime among watercourse states that offers a route to governing their shared water resources in ways that are politically economically and environmentally sound In almost all water scarce regions international water resources are subject to intense unilateral exploitation in a highly competitive fashion And as demand for freshwater continues to increase through increasing urbanization and the continuing development of societies so the issue of how such shared water resources can best be governed is becoming vitally important Negotiating International Water Rights offers both a timely contribution to a matter of international concern and important insights into resource conflict in countries of vital security interest to the world at large National Role Conceptions in a New Millennium Michael Grossman, Francis Schortgen, Gordon M. Friedrichs, 2022-02-17 National Role Conceptions in a New Millennium examines the transformation of the international system through an examination of the role conceptions adopted by the different global actors Advancing current role theory scholarship in International Relations the contributors take as their starting point the question of how international actors are responding to the reordering of the global system They reflect on the rise of new actors and the reemergence of old rivalries the decline of established norms and the unleashing of internal political forces such as nationalism and parochialism They argue that changes in the international system can impact how states define their roles and act as a variable in both domestic and international role contestations Further they examine the redefinition of roles of countries and the international organizations that have been central to the US and western dominated world order including major powers in the world the US Russia China Britain etc as well as the European Union NATO and ASEAN By looking at international organizations this text moves beyond the traditional subjects of role theory in the study of international relations to examine how roles are contested in non state actors National Role Conceptions in a New Millennium is the first attempt to delve into the individual motivations of states to seek role transition As such it is ideal for those teaching and studying both theory and method in international relations and foreign policy analysis Future North
