

HEART DANCING

A woman with long brown hair, wearing a red long-sleeved shirt and purple pants, is depicted in a dynamic, dancing pose within the ocean waves. She is barefoot, and her arms are outstretched. The water is rendered in vibrant shades of blue and green, with white foam from the waves. The background shows a sandy beach at the bottom and a sky with soft, yellow and orange clouds at the top.

American Alchemy Brian Roberts, 2003-06-19 California during the gold rush was a place of disputed claims shoot outs gambling halls and prostitution a place populated by that rough and rebellious figure the forty niner in short a place that seems utterly unconnected to middle class culture In American Alchemy however Brian Roberts offers a surprising challenge to this assumption Roberts points to a long neglected truth of the gold rush many of the northeastern forty niners who ventured westward were in fact middle class in origin status and values Tracing the experiences and adventures both of these men and of the unseen forty niners women who stayed back East while their husbands went out West he shows that whatever else the gold seekers abandoned on the road to California they did not simply turn their backs on middle class culture Ultimately Roberts argues the story told here reveals an overlooked chapter in the history of the formation of the middle class While the acquisition of respectability reflects one stage in this history he says the gold rush constitutes a second stage a rebellion against standards of respectability
