Performing Masculinity in English University Drama, 1598-1636 Christopher Marlow, 2016-05-13 Referencing early modern English play texts alongside contemporary records accounts and statutes this study offers an overdue assessment of the relationship between the dramatic efforts of the universities and early modern male identity Taking into account the near single sex constitution of early modern universities the book argues that performances of university plays and student responses to them were key ways of exploring and shaping early modern masculinity Christopher Marlow shows how the plays dealt with their academic and social contexts and analyses their responses to competing versions of masculinity He also considers the implications of university authority and royal patronage for scholarly performances of masculinity the effect of the literary traditions of classical friendship and platonic love on academic representations of male behaviour and the relationship between university drama and masculine initiation rituals Including discussion of the Parnassus trilogy Club Law and works by Thomas Randolph William Cartwright John Milton and others this study shines new light on long neglected aspects of the golden age of English drama

Manhood and the American Renaissance David Leverenz,2019-06-30 In the view of David Leverenz such nineteenth century American male writers as Emerson Hawthorne Melville Thoreau and Whitman were influenced more profoundly by the popular model of the entrepreneurial man of force than they were by their literary precursors and contemporaries Drawing on the insights of feminist theory gender studies psychoanalytical criticism and social history Manhood and the American Renaissance demonstrates that gender pressures and class conflicts played as critical a role in literary creation for the male writers of nineteenth century America as they did for the women writers Leverenz interprets male American authors in terms of three major ideologies of manhood linked to the social classes in the Northeast patrician artisan and entrepreneurial He asserts that the older ideologies of patrician gentility and of artisan independence were being challenged from 1820 to 1860 by the new middle class ideology of competitive individualism The male writers of the American Renaissance patrician almost without exception in their backgrounds and self expectations were fascinated yet horrified by the aggressive materialism and the rivalry for dominance they witnessed in the undeferential new men In close readings of the works both of well known male literary figures and of then popular authors such as Richard Henry Dana Jr and Francis Parkman Leverenz discovers a repressed center of manhood beset by fears of humiliation and masochistic fantasies He discerns different patterns in the works of Whitman with his artisan s background and Frederick Douglass who rose from artisan freedom to entrepreneurial power Emphasizing the interplay of class and gender Leverenz also considers how women viewed manhood He concludes that male writers portrayed manhood as a rivalry for dominance but contemporary female writers saw it as patriarchy Two chapters contrast the work of the genteel writers Sarah Hale and Caroline Kirkland with the evangelical works of Susan Warner and Harriet Beecher Stowe A bold and imaginative work Manhood and the American Renaissance will enlighten and inspire controversy among all students of American literature nineteenth century American history and the relation of gender and literature Star in the West ,1839
