

5. Staphylococcus aureus strains found in household, nursing, hospital and veterinary environments have been found to have mutations and rearrangements in the hly gene sequence. Significant changes in both the hly gene, which encodes the exfoliative toxin, and in hly promoter regions have been observed. These strains appear to constitute a distinct group. They probably arose from other genetic strains as the hly gene rearrangement has been observed only in a region of 1.5 kb, whereas hly promoter gene rearrangements have been observed that involve up to 10 kb of genetic material upstream of the hly gene.

10. "After you've been placed in your assigned room, read all your flight's documents to make sure you've received correct flight information." Flight information includes a travel itinerary, baggage allowances, departure and arrival times, the flight's status, and other important information. Read the flight's status to make sure the flight is on time and that there are no changes to the flight. Read the baggage allowances to make sure you know what you can and cannot bring on the flight. Read the departure and arrival times to make sure you know when to go to the airport and when to get on the plane. Read the travel documents to make sure you have all the necessary documents for your flight.
