Fifty Days of Solitude Doris Grumbach, 2014-12-02 A New York Times Notable Book To truly understand herself Doris Grumbach embraces solitude With a busy career as a novelist essayist reviewer and bookstore owner Doris Grumbach has little opportunity to be alone However after seventy five years on the planet she finally has her chance Her partner has departed for an extended book buying trip and Grumbach has been given fifty days to relax think and write about her experience In this graceful memoir Grumbach delicately balances the beauty of turning one's back on everything with the hardship of complete aloneness Even as she attends church and collects her mail she moves like a shadow speaking to no one Left only to her books and music in the midst of a Maine winter she must look within herself for solace The result of this reflection is a powerful meditation on the meaning of aging writing and one's own company and reaffirmation of the power of friends and companionship

Fifty Days of Solitude Doris Grumbach, 1995-02-01 A New York Times Notable Book Faced with a rare opportunity to experiment with solitude Doris Grumbach decided to live in her coastal Maine home without speaking to anyone for fifty days The result is a beautiful meditation about what it means to write to be alone and to come to terms with mortality

Cultural Histories of Ageing Margery Vibe Skagen, 2021-05-12 Drawing on sixteenth to twenty first century American British French German Polish Norwegian and Russian literature and philosophy this collection teases out culturally specific conceptions of old age as well as subjective constructions of late life identity and selfhood The internationally known humanistic gerontologist Jan Baars the prominent historian of old age David Troyansky and the distinguished cultural historian and pioneer in the field of literature and science George Rousseau join a team of literary historians who trace out the interfaces between their chosen texts and the respective periods medical and gerontological knowledge The chapters in depth analyses of major and less known works demonstrate the rich potential of fiction poetry and autobiographical writing in the construction of a cultural history of senescence These literary examples not only bear witness to longue dur e representations of old age and epochal transitions regarding cultural attitudes to the aged they also foreground the subjectivities that produced some of these representations and that continue to communicate with readers of other times and places By casting a net over a variety of authors genres periods and languages the collection gives a broad sense of how literature is among the richest and most engaging sources for historicizing the ageing self Shame and the Aging

Woman J. Brooks Bouson, 2016-08-19 This book brings together the research findings of contemporary feminist age studies scholars shame theorists and feminist gerontologists in order to unfurl the affective dynamics of gendered ageism In her analysis of what she calls embodied shame J Brooks Bouson describes older women s shame about the visible signs of aging and the health and appearance of their bodies as they undergo the normal processes of bodily aging Examining both fictional and nonfiction works by contemporary North American and British women authors this book offers a sustained analysis of the various ways that ageism devalues and damages the identities of otherwise psychologically healthy women in our graying culture Shame theory as Bouson shows astutely explains why gendered ageism is so deeply entrenched in our culture and why even aging feminists may succumb to this distressing but sometimes hidden cultural affliction At Eighty-Two May Sarton, 2014-07-22 The New York Times bestselling author of At Seventy returns with a memoir about advancing age including her experience with a series of strokes In this poignant and fearless account Sarton chronicles the struggles of life at eighty two She juxtaposes the quotidian details of life battling a leaky roof sharing an afternoon nap with her cat the joy of buying a new mattress with lyrical musings about work celebrity devoted friends and the limitations wrought by the frailties of age She creates poetry out of everyday existence whether bemoaning a lack of recognition by the literary establishment or the devastation wrought by a series of strokes Incapacitated by illness Sarton relies on friends for the little things she always took for granted As she becomes more and more aware of what holds life together in a workable whole she takes solace in flowers and chocolate and reading letters from devoted fans This journal takes us into the heart and mind of an extraordinary artist and woman and is a must read for Sarton devotees and anyone facing the reality of growing older This ebook features
