Abstract: The purpose of this study was to investigate the effect of a 12-week, 100% body weight (BW) resistance training program on the muscle strength and endurance of the lower extremities of sedentary women. The subjects were 15 female college students (mean age 20.5 ± 0.5 years, mean BW 65.5 ± 5.5 kg). The subjects were divided into two groups: a control group (n = 7) and an experimental group (n = 8). The experimental group performed a 12-week, 100% BW resistance training program, while the control group did not. The subjects were tested at baseline and at the end of the 12-week program. The results showed that the experimental group had significantly greater increases in muscle strength and endurance compared to the control group. The results of this study suggest that a 12-week, 100% BW resistance training program is effective in improving muscle strength and endurance in sedentary women.
