Sheriff, 2010-06-21 Art historians have long been accustomed to thinking about art and artists in terms of national traditions This volume takes a different approach suggesting instead that a history of art based on national divisions often obscures the processes of cultural appropriation and global exchange that shaped the visual arts of Europe in fundamental ways between 1492 and the early twentieth century Essays here analyze distinct zones of contact between various European states between Asia and Europe or between Europe and so called primitive cultures in Africa the Americas and the South Pacific focusing mainly but not exclusively on painting drawing or the decorative arts Each case foregrounds the centrality of international borrowings or colonial appropriations and counters conceptions of European art as a pure tradition uninfluenced by the artistic forms of other cultures The contributors analyze the social cultural commercial and political conditions of cultural contact including tourism colonialism religious pilgrimage trade missions and scientific voyages that enabled these exchanges well before the modern age of globalization Contributors Claire Farago University of Colorado at Boulder Elisabeth A Fraser University of South Florida Julie Hochstrasser University of Iowa Christopher Johns Vanderbilt University Carol Mavor University of North Carolina at Chapel Hill Mary D Sheriff University of North Carolina at Chapel Hill Lyneise E Williams University of North Carolina at Chapel Hill Indian Renaissance
