[1] The first system was called the "Holographic Thermal,"¹ in which multiple wavelengths were directed at multiple heat absorbing wafers. The second²— having an all red heat sink in reflecting and absorbing wavelengths³— (Holographic HT) is how these technologies are referred to in the books, especially the Holographic HT being the very first chapter of "Holographic Thermal" (see collection of articles below).

The government's efforts to bring its electricity production up to the level of the country's growing demand for electricity is being hampered by the lack of funds. The government is trying to raise funds by selling the electricity it produces at a price that is below the cost of production. This is a very risky move, as it could lead to a loss of revenue for the government. The government is also trying to attract foreign investment to build new power plants. However, this is a long-term process and it will take time to see if it is successful.
