International Nuclear Export Controls and Non-Proliferation Ian J. Stewart, 2021-09-27 This book examines the evolution of international nuclear non proliferation trade controls over time The book argues that the international nuclear export controls have developed in a sub optimal way as a result of a non proliferation collective action problem This has resulted in competition among suppliers owing to the absence of an overarching effective system of control While efforts have been undertaken to address this collective action problem and strengthen controls over time these measures have been inherently limited it is argued here because of the same structural factors and vested interests that led to the creation of the problem in the first place This study examines international controls from the beginning of the nuclear age and early efforts to control the atom up to more recent times and the challenge posed by Iranian and North Korean nuclear ambitions Drawing on a rich body of original archival research and interviews the book demonstrates that the collective action problem has restrained cooperation in preventing nuclear proliferation and that gaps persist in the international nuclear trade control regime This book will be of much interest to students of nuclear proliferation and arms control security studies and International Relations Water - Energy - Food Nexus Narratives and Resource Securities Tafadzwa Mabhaudhi, Aidan Senzanje, Albert T. Gordon, Herbert H.T. Prins, Geoff R.

Squire, 2016-11-25 Feeding the world's growing human population is increasingly challenging especially as more people adopt a western diet and lifestyle Doing so without causing damage to nature poses an even greater challenge This book argues that in order to create a sustainable food supply whilst conserving nature agriculture and nature must be reconnected and approached together The authors demonstrate that while the links between nature and food production have to some extent already been recognized until now the focus has been to protect one from the impacts of the other Instead it is argued that nature and agriculture can and should work together and ultimately benefit from one another Chapters describe efforts to protect nature through globally connected protected area systems and illustrate how farming methods are being shaped to protect nature within agricultural systems The authors also point to many ways in which nature benefits agriculture through the ecosystem services it provides Overall the book shows that nature conservation and food production must be considered as equally important components of future solutions to meet the global demand for food in a manner that is sustainable for both the human population and the planet as a whole Nature-Based Solutions for Natural Hazards and Climate Change Borja Gonzalez Reguero, Fabrice Renaud, Silvana Di Sabatino, Brenden Jongman, Boris van Zanten, Michael W. Water for Food Security, Nutrition and Social Justice Lyla Mehta, Theib Oweis, Claudia Ringler, Barbara Schreiner, Shiney Varghese, 2019-09-19 This book is the first comprehensive effort to bring together Water Food Security and Nutrition FSN in a way that goes beyond the traditional focus on irrigated agriculture Apart from looking at the role of water and sanitation for human well being it proposes alternative and more locally appropriate ways to address complex water management and governance challenges from the local to global levels against a backdrop of growing uncertainties The authors challenge mainstream supply oriented and neo Malthusian visions that argue for the need to increase the land area under irrigation in order to feed the world's growing population. Instead they argue for a reframing of the debate concerning production processes, waste, food consumption and dietary patterns whilst proposing alternative strategies to improve water and land productivity, putting the interests of marginalized and disenfranchized groups upfront. The book highlights how accessing water for FSN can be challenging for small holders, vulnerable and marginalized women and men and how water allocation systems and reform processes can negatively affect local people's informal rights. The book argues for the need to improve policy coherence across water, land and food and is original in making a case for strengthening the relationship between the human rights to water and food especially for marginalized women and men. It will be of great interest to practitioners, students and researchers working on water and food issues.
