O'Hanlon,2015-08-31 What happens if we bet too heavily on unmanned systems cyber warfare and special operations in our defense In today s U S defense policy debates big land wars are out Drones cyber weapons special forces and space weapons are in Accordingly Pentagon budget cuts have honed in on the army and ground forces this after the long wars in Iraq and Afghanistan seems like an appealing idea No one really wants American boots on the ground in bloody conflicts abroad But it is not so easy to simply declare an end to messy land wars A survey of the world s trouble spots suggests that land warfare has more of a future than many now seem to believe In The Future of Land Warfare Michael O Hanlon offers an analysis of the future of the world s ground forces Where are large scale conflicts or other catastrophes most plausible Which of these could be important enough to require the option of a U S military response And which of these could in turn demand significant numbers of American ground forces in their resolution O Hanlon is not predicting or advocating big American roles in such operations only cautioning against overconfidence that we can and will avoid them O Hanlon considers a number of illustrative scenarios in which large conventional forces may be necessary discouraging Russia from even contemplating attacks against the Baltic states discouraging China from considering an unfriendly future role on the Korean peninsula handling an asymmetric threat in the South China Sea with the construction and protection of a number of bases in the Philippines and elsewhere managing the aftermath of a major and complex humanitarian disaster superimposed on a security crisis perhaps in South Asia coping with a severe Ebola outbreak not in the small states of West
