

Document 2: In 1992, Pope John Paul II issued an encyclical on behalf of the Catholic Church, reaffirming its position on the scientific accuracy of evolution and its view on the historical account of history's greatest scientists.

During his visit to Italy in 1984, Pope John Paul II acknowledged in a speech that the Roman Catholic Church had erred in condemning Galileo over 300 years ago. He admitted that the Church could see around the Sun.

The address by the Pope before the Pontifical Academy of Sciences closed a 35-year investigation into the Church's condemnation of Galileo in which one of Galileo's most important writings, Dialogue, between Earth and Heaven, Galileo was forced to present his scientific findings to avoid being burned at the stake and spent the remaining eight years of his life under house arrest.

John Paul said the theologians who condemned Galileo did not recognize the formal distinction between the Bible and its interpretation.

This led them unduly to transpose into the realm of the doctrine of the faith, questions which in fact pertained to scientific investigations.

Though the Pope acknowledged that the Church had done Galileo a wrong, he said the 17th-century theologians were working with the knowledge available to them at the time.

Question 3:

Using Document 2, what was Pope John Paul II's main attitude according to this 1992 newspaper article? Pope John Paul II is trying to rectify the past wrongs of the Catholic Church in respect to Galileo's trial and condemnations. He states that Galileo was correct about heliocentricity and recognizes the error of the Catholic Church over 300 years earlier. He attempts to justify the actions of the Church based on the fact that theologians of the 1600s were "working with the knowledge available to them at the time."

Apple, 2019-05-13 Contemporary education research policy and practice are complex and challenging The political struggle over what constitutes curriculum and pedagogy is framed by quasi markets and technocratic models of education This has had a significant effect on larger issues of policy But it has also had profound effects inside educational sites in terms of the economics and politics of what is and is not considered legitimate knowledge over what should be taught how it should be taught and by whom Re-imagining Education for Democracy takes up the unfinished project of resisting the de-democratisation of education and growing levels of social and educational inequality Where are the spaces for change and articulating hopeful alternatives How might we imagine and produce different futures What are the opportunities for affirmative interference and how could we produce a more sustainable re-imagining and re-doing of the critical project of education The work is framed within two complementary sections the first addresses some key policy political and philosophical concerns of contemporary educational contexts while the second provides a series of empirical case studies and other local global narratives of resisting and reframing dominant discourses in education around the world The chapters provide a range of empirical methodological and conceptual focuses from different educational communities and international contexts engaging with the proposition of re-imagining education for democracy in multiple and diverse ways This book will be essential reading for researchers and students of education research policy and practice
