

7.4 Homeostasis and Cells

Learning Objectives

- 1. Explain how multicellular organisms regulate temperature.
- 2. Explain how multicellular organisms maintain homeostasis.

Learning Summary

There are two main components of homeostasis: inputs and output. Inputs: stimuli (anything that can affect homeostasis) and the hypothalamus (controls the body).

- 1. Feedback is a regulated response. Homeostasis, which is a constant state, is controlled by (controlling) responding to the environment by maintaining (staying) homeostasis.
- 2. Homeostasis requires multiple feedback loops and responses.
- 3. Homeostasis maintains what is a regulated state in the body (see below).

Homeostasis and Cells

Cells of multicellular organisms are interconnected and specialized.

- 1. The cells of multicellular organisms become specialized for particular tasks and communicate with each other to maintain homeostasis.
- 2. Homeostatic multicellular organisms are organized into groups:
  - a. A tissue is a group of similar cells that perform a particular function.
  - b. An organ is a group of tissues working together to perform a particular task.
  - c. An organ system is a group of organs that work together to perform a particular function.
- 3. Multicellular multicellular organisms communicate with each other by means of:
  - a. Hormones (chemicals that are produced and sent out to the body).
  - b. Signals with direct communication, as in the case of a neuron (a cell that sends out signals to other cells).
  - c. Signals with indirect communication (e.g., a neuron sends a signal to a cell that sends a signal to another cell).
  - d. A signal is a chemical signal, a cell sends a signal to a cell that sends a signal to another cell.

The Cell as an Organism

For Questions 1-5, indicate each statement by writing the corresponding number.

- 1. The cell is the smallest unit of structure and function of a multicellular organism.
- 2. The cell is the smallest unit of structure and function of a multicellular organism.
- 3. The cell is the smallest unit of structure and function of a multicellular organism.
- 4. The cell is the smallest unit of structure and function of a multicellular organism.
- 5. The cell is the smallest unit of structure and function of a multicellular organism.
