

Four in a Row: Reading Homework

FICTION

Each week you will select one row from the chart below. The row can be horizontal, vertical or diagonal. After your reading each night, complete a response in your Reading Journal based on the row you have chosen. You should have one response block completed for each night, Monday through Thursday. Be sure to choose a different row each week!

1. Make a prediction based on what you read tonight.	2. Find 4 new words from tonight's reading and try using them in a sentence.	3. Make a connection to tonight's reading. Your connection can be with another book, yourself, or something else you have heard or seen.	4. At this point in your book, have any of the characters changed? If so, how?
5. If you could rewrite a part of the story, which part would it be and why?	6. Identify the parts of the plot (rising action, climax, falling action) that you have read about so far.	7. Illustrate your favorite part of the book from tonight's reading.	8. Write to the author or a character in the text about a part you read tonight.
9. Identify the story elements you have experienced in your reading so far. (Character, setting, problem, climax and solution)	10. Write a summary of tonight's reading.	11. Why do you think the author wrote this story? How do you know?	12. Create a comic strip of your favorite part of the story.
13. Which character do you feel you have the most in common with? Why?	14. Write one fact and one opinion about tonight's reading.	15. What is the mood or tone of tonight's reading? How do you know?	16. Write a summary of tonight's reading.
