its vehicles have made it the world's most iconic carmaker. Though Ferrari has always produced road cars, the company has first and foremost focused on competition models such as the handful of cars built in low number serial production that campaigned on race courses the world over in the 1950s and 60s. In Ferrari Hypercars: The Story of Maranello's Fastest Rarest Road Cars, author Winston Goodfellow profiles some of Ferrari's top creations, vehicles so startling in their performance capabilities that they surpass modern terms and attain the status of hypercar. This book begins by reaching back to the 1950s to establish the lineage of hypercars and goes on to showcase the best known examples since the 288 GTO, including the F40, F50, Enzo, and all new LaFerrari. These cars were collector vehicles from the moment they rolled off the production line, though that was never the reason for their creation; they were made to be driven. A necessary read for any racing fan, Ferrari Hypercars exhaustively traces the history of the company's competition vehicles and establishes its status as a symbol for speed, luxury, and wealth.

High-Level Parallel Programming Models and Supportive Environments Frank Mueller, 2003-05-15. On the 23rd of April 2001, the 6th Workshop on High Level Parallel Programming Models and Supportive Environments (LCTES '98) was held in San Francisco. HIPSHas been held over the past six years in conjunction with IPDPS, the International Parallel and Distributed Processing Symposium. The HIPSWorkshop focuses on high level programming of networks of workstations, computing clusters, and of massively parallel machines. Its goal is to bring together researchers working in the areas of applications, language design, compilers, system architecture, and programming tools to discuss new developments in programming such systems. In recent years, several standards have emerged with an increasing demand of support for parallel and distributed processing. On one end, message passing frameworks such as PVM, MPI, and VIA provide support for basic communication. On the other hand, distributed object standards such as CORBA and DCOM provide support for handling remote objects in a client-server fashion but also ensure certain guarantees for the quality of services. The key issues for the success of programming parallel and distributed environments are high level programming concepts and efficiency. In addition, other quality categories have to be taken into account such as scalability, security, bandwidth guarantees, and fault tolerance, just to name a few. Today's challenge is to provide high level programming concepts without sacrificing efficiency. This is only possible by carefully designing for those concepts and by providing supportive programming environments that facilitate program development and tuning.
