The Personal and the Professional in Aid Work Anne-Meike Fechter, 2016-03-16 This book considers how the personal and the professional dimensions are related and how they matter for aid work The contributions to this edited volume are based on the assumption that all actors are relevant in development including national and international aid workers A key question which the book explores is why the personal so often remains unacknowledged in development studies even though its salience for aid workers is well documented One possible reason is an implicit narrative of aid work as altruistic and self-sacrificing which renders it inappropriate to devote much attention to the experiences of development professionals themselves In order to redress this this book critically considers the kind of difference they make and aims to understand how they respond to the challenges of their work The book explores their efficacy as human beings and employees with individual subjectivities social and cultural beliefs and practices and documents how these shape their involvement in development processes This book was published as a special issue of Third World Quarterly

The Mediatization of Culture and Society Stig Hjarvard, 2013 Mediatization has emerged as a key concept to reconsider old yet fundamental questions about the role and influence of media in culture and society In particular the theory of mediatization has proved fruitful for the analysis of how media spread to become intertwined with and influence other social institutions and cultural phenomena like politics play and religion This book presents a major contribution to the theoretical understanding of the mediatization of culture and society This is supplemented by in depth studies of The mediatization of politics From party press to opinion industry The mediatization of religion From the faith of the church to the enchantment of the media The mediatization of play From bricks to bytes The mediatization of habitus The social character of a new individualism Mediatization represents a new social condition in which the media have emerged as an important institution in society at the same time as they have become integrated into the very fabric of social and cultural life Making use of a broad conception of the media as technologies institutions and aesthetic forms Stig Hjarvard considers how characteristics of both old and new media come to influence human interaction social institutions and cultural imaginations

The Inner World of Doctor Who Iain MacRury, Michael Rustin, 2018-05-11 As Doctor Who approaches its fiftieth anniversary recent series have taken the show to new heights in terms of popular appeal and critical acclaim The Doctor and his TARDIS driven adventures along with companions and iconic monsters are now recognised and enjoyed globally The time is ripe for a detailed analytic assessment of this cultural phenomenon Focussing on the most recent television output The Inner World of Doctor Who examines why the show continues to fascinate contemporary audiences Presenting closely observed psychoanalytic readings of selected episodes this book examines why these stories of time travel monsters and complex human relationships have been successful in providing such an emotionally rich dramatization of human experience The Inner World of Doctor Who seeks to explore the multiple cultural and emotional dimensions of the series moving back and forth from behind the famous sofa where children remember hiding from scary monsters and onto the proverbial psychoanalytic couch
