Teaching Political Science: A Practical Guide for Instructors Amanda M. Rosen, 2024-08-01 This book applies the existing literature in the scholarship of teaching and learning to political science advising discipline specific tips approaches and strategies to put immediately into practice Keeping in mind the pace of an academic career it also challenges the widely held misconception that being a good teacher requires a huge time investment This book is meant for three core audiences graduate students taking a course on teaching political science or about to embark on their first teaching experience newly minted PhDs facing their first academic post and trying to figure out how to balance all of their new responsibilities and veteran instructors looking to prepare a new course or revise an existing one Oilfield Microbiology Torben Lund Skovhus, Corinne Whitby, 2019-03-29 Microorganisms can be both beneficial and harmful to the oil and gas industry and therefore there is an increasing need for the oil industry to characterize quantify and monitor microbial communities in real time Oilfield Microbiology offers a fundamental insight into how molecular microbiological methods have enabled researchers in the field to analyze and quantify in situ microbial communities and their activities in response to changing environmental conditions Such information is fundamental to the oil industry to employ more directed cost effective strategies to prevent the major problems associated with deleterious microbial activities e g souring and biocorrosion as well as to encourage beneficial microbe activity e g oil bioremediation The aim of the book is to understand how the technological advances in molecular microbiological methods over the last two decades are now being utilized by the oil industry to address the key issues faced by the sector This book contains a comprehensive collection of chapters written by invited experts in the field from academia and industry and provides a solid foundation of the importance of microbes to the oil and gas industry It is aimed at microbial ecologists molecular biologists operators engineers chemists and academics involved in the sector Open Access and the Future of Scholarly Communication Kevin L. Smith, Katherine A. Dickson, 2016-12-08 This volume the second of two in the series Creating the 21st Century Academic Library that deals with the topic of open access in academic libraries focuses on the implementation of open access in academic libraries Chapters on the legalities and practicalities of open access in academic libraries address the issues associated with copyright licensing and intellectual property and include support for courses that require open access distribution of student work The topic of library services in support of open access is explored including the library's role in providing open educational resources and as an ally and driver of their adoption for example by helping defray author fees that are required for open access articles A detailed look at open access in the context of undergraduate research is provided and considers how librarians can engage undergraduates in conversations about open access Chapters consider ways to engage undergraduate students in the use understanding evaluation and creation of open access resources Issues that are of concern to graduate students are also given some attention and central to these are the development of Electronic Thesis and Dissertation ETD programs A chapter examines the library's role in balancing greater access to graduate student work with the consequences of openness such as concerns about book contracts and sales plagiarism and changes in scholarly research and production. The book concludes with issues surrounding open data and library services in critical data librarianship including advocacy, preservation and instruction. It is hoped that this volume and the series in general will be a valuable and exciting addition to the discussions and planning surrounding the future directions, services and careers in the 21st century academic library. One Step Ahead

David Sally, 2020-08-06. The world's best negotiators have moved beyond the conventional wisdom by utilising cutting edge studies and real world results. It's time you did too. For over twenty years David Sally has been teaching the art of negotiation at leading business schools and to executives at top companies. Now using insights from social psychology and game theory he delivers the proven, clear, actionable advice you need to stay one step ahead. By studying great examples from Machiavelli to Wall Street, Xi Jinping and Barack Obama he explores how the game's masters navigate the field strategically, craftily, even emotionally. The best know every negotiation is different and that your tactics are in part determined by your opponent. One Step Ahead will make sure that you have what it takes to come out on top, no matter who you are facing across the table. Imperatives for Legal Education Research

Ben Golder, Marina Nehme, Alex Steel, Prue Vines, 2019-08-28. In the last few decades university teaching has been recognised as an activity which can be studied and improved through educational scholarship. In some disciplines this is now well established. It remains emergent in legal education. The field is rich with questions to be answered, issues to be raised. This book provides the first overall review of legal education scholarship. The chapters outline the history of legal education research and provide a detailed analysis of the trends in areas of publication. Beyond this, the book suggests a typology for further conceptualising the field and a series of suggested paths for future research. The book originated from the 2017 UNSW conference Research in Legal Education: State of the Art. It features internationally respected authors who bring their perspectives on how legal education as a field of research should be conceptualised. The collection is arranged into three themes. First, a historical view is taken of the emergence of legal education scholarship and its roots that predate modern educational theory. Secondly, the book provides overviews of the extant field of publications, highlighting areas of interest and neglect and delineating the trends in current publication. Thirdly, the book provides a set of suggested typologies for describing legal education research and a series of essays for future directions which both critique current approaches and provide inspiration for future directions. The State of Legal Education Research represents an authoritative introduction to the field, a set of conceptual tools with which to describe it and inspiration for researchers to expand and grow research into legal education. Planting the Anthropocene

Jennifer Clary-Lemon, 2019-03-15. Planting the Anthropocene is a rhetorical look into the world of industrial tree planting in Canada that engages the themes of nature, culture and environmental change. Bringing together the work of material ecocriticism and critical affect studies in service of a new materialist environmental rhetoric, Planting the Anthropocene forwards a frame that can be used to work through complex scenes of anthropogenic labor Using the results of interviews with seasonal Canadian tree planters Jennifer Clary Lemon interrogates the complex and messy imbrication of nature culture through the inadequate terminology used to describe the actual circumstances of the planters work and lives and offers alternative ways to conceptualize them Although silvicultural workers do engage with the limiting rhetoric of efficiency and humanism they also make rhetorical choices that break down the nature culture divide and orient them on a continuum that blurs the boundaries between the given and the constructed the human and nonhuman Tree planting work is approached as a site of a deep seated materiality a continued re creation of the land s disturbance rather than a simplistic form of doing good that further separates humans from landscapes Jennifer Clary Lemon s view of nature and the Anthropocene through the lens of material rhetorical studies is thoroughly original and will be of great interest to students and scholars of rhetoric and composition especially those focused on the environment The Nation ,1879 Nuclear Science Abstracts ,1972 The London Medical Record ,1873 Medical Record Ernest Abraham Hart,1873 Misleading Trajectories Andreas Walther,2013-06-29 It is commonly acknowledged that the risk of social exclusion has increased over the last few decades and that young people in particular are one of the most vulnerable groups especially if they have not yet achieved a stable social position In this context a stable position is interpreted as having obtained a stable position within the labour market Across Europe it has also become commonly acknowledged that policies have to do something for young people as they represent the future of present societies In fact among politicians and policy administrators there is a broadly shared myth that it is enough doing anything for young people The thematic network Misleading Trajectories which is documented in the following chapters was concerned with examining these myths and highlighting the traps of social exclusion that are inherent in policies focusing on youth transitions school vocational training careers advice social security labour market programmes The network was funded by the European Commission under the 4th Framework Programme for Research Technology and Demonstration under the strand Targeted Socio Economic Research from 1998 to 2001 It involved teams from eight countries which were Denmark Germany Ireland Italy the Netherlands Portugal Spain and the United Kingdom The network began from the observation that many policies on the local regional national and European level that are intended to lead young adults towards gainful employment adult status and social integration are in fact misleading Review of Progress in Quantitative Nondestructive Evaluation Donald O. Thompson,Dale E. Chimenti,2013-06-29 This volume Parts A and B contains the edited papers presented at the annual Review of Progress in Quantitative Nondestructive Evaluation held at the University of California San Diego in LaJolla August 3-8 1986 The Review was organized and sponsored by the Center for NDE at Iowa State University and the Ames Laboratory in cooperation with the Office of Basic Energy Sciences USDOE and the Materials Laboratory at Wright Patterson Air Force Base Approximately 400 attendees a new record representing various government agencies industry and universities participated in the technical presentations poster sessions and discussions This Review with its wide ranging interchange of technical information stands as one of the most comprehensive in the field of NDE research and engineering In order to present the reader with a more useful document we have organized the symposium papers in these Proceedings by subject rather than by the order of presentation at the Review Topical subject headings have been selected under which the large majority of papers would reasonably fall Here again we have revised the format used in former years to accommodate an evolving focus of interest in the field These categories cover a broad spectrum of research in NDE and encompass activities from fundamental work to early engineering applications In the following paragraphs we offer a brief summary of the research presented in these Proceedings
