On Shame Michael Morgan,2011-04-06 Despite the wide use of shame in the media and politics through name and shame campaigns and cause related marketing it is not a term well or universally understood This book points to ways in which we can and should use this powerful emotion to address and act against atrocities in the modern world

Predator-Prey Interactions in the Fossil Record Patricia H. Kelley,Michal Kowalewski,Thor A. Hansen,2012-12-06 From the Foreword Predator prey interactions are among the most significant of all organism organism interactions It will only be by compiling and evaluating data on predator prey relations as they are recorded in the fossil record that we can hope to tease apart their role in the tangled web of evolutionary interaction over time This volume compiled by a group of expert specialists on the evidence of predator prey interactions in the fossil record is a pioneering effort to collate the information now accumulating in this important field It will be a standard reference on which future study of one of the central dynamics of ecology as seen in the fossil record will be built Richard K Bambach

Integrating Conservation Biology and Paleobiology to Manage Biodiversity and Ecosystems in a Changing World G. Lynn Wingard,Chris Schneider,Gregory P. Dietl ,Damien Fordham, Policy makers and resource managers must make decisions that affect the resilience and sustainability of natural resources including biodiversity and ecosystem services However these decisions are often based on evidence or theory derived from highly altered systems and over short time periods of low magnitude environmental and climatic change Because natural systems change and evolve across multiple timescales from instantaneous to millennial long term understanding of how past life has responded to perturbations can inform resource managers By using these natural laboratories of the past conservation paleobiology and paleoecology provide the framework necessary to anticipate and plan for future changes The goal of this Research Topic is to heighten awareness among conservation and restoration practitioners to the value and applications of long term perspectives provided by conservation paleobiology and paleoecology Most conservation studies focus on systems already impacted by anthropogenic change these studies would benefit from paleontological data through expanded temporal scales identification of baselines and an understanding of how organisms have responded to past changes However resource management decisions rarely include input from paleontologists and paleoecological research is rarely incorporated into conservation decision making We seek to bridge this research implementation gap by highlighting the application of paleoecological data to issues such as biodiversity dynamics extinction risks and resilience to perturbations among other topics We hope to foster new cross disciplinary synergies by encouraging conservation scientists and managers to collaborate with paleontologists to improve conservation decision making and by increasing awareness among paleontologists to the needs of the resource management community This Research Topic will provide a forum for both the paleontological and resource management communities to exchange ideas that will enhance restoration and conservation decision making We invite papers on conceptual advances reviews of specific topics to guide efforts in research or practice case studies of successful applications articles describing datasets with applied value and perspective papers summarizing a body of paleontological research with relevance to the resource management community Topics can include but are not limited to Responses of species communities and ecosystems to perturbations Strategies to achieve the direct integration of paleobiology and paleoecology into on ground resource management Identifying baselines and reference conditions Increasing the robustness of forecasting models through the incorporation of paleontological data Identifying key species interactions and other phenomena as indicators of impending change New methodologies analytical tools and or proxies in the application of paleontological data to conservation and restoration practice Lynn Wingard Damien Fordham and Greg Dietl have no conflicts of interest Chris Schneider has a potential conflict of interest where manuscripts pertain to stakeholders in the petroleum industry as she is an independent contractor in the Alberta Oil Sands mining area

Davies,2018-07-19 Synthetic biology is one of the 21st century s fastest growing fields of research as important for technology as for basic science Building on traditional genetic engineering which was restricted to changing one or two genes synthetic biology uses multi gene modules and pathways to make very significant changes to what cells can do Synthetic biologists aim to have an impact in fields as diverse as drug manufacture biofuel production tackling pollution and medical diagnostics Further ahead synthetic biology may even make possible the long standing goal of creating new life from non living starting materials This Very Short Introduction provides a concise explanation of what synthetic biology is and how it is beginning to affect many fields of technology Jamie Davies also discusses the considerable controversies surrounding synthetic biology from questions over the assumption that engineering concepts can be applied to living systems easily to scepticism over the claims for commercial promise fears that the dangers of engineering life are worse than its benefits and concerns over whether humans should be designing living systems at all ABOUT THE SERIES The Very Short Introductions series from Oxford University Press contains hundreds of titles in almost every subject area These pocket sized books are the perfect way to get ahead in a new subject quickly Our expert authors combine facts analysis perspective new ideas and enthusiasm to make interesting and challenging topics highly readable New Basic and Translational Perspectives on Skin Repair Yiming Zhang, Tao Zan, Min Zhao, Chengliang Deng, Cheng Peng, 2024-09-27 Skin the largest organ of the human body makes up the main barrier to prevent the invasion of pathogenic organisms and the loss of water Any injuries to the skin caused by trauma diseases or aging will lead to skin dysfunctions resulting in a series of physical and mental disorders Wound healing is a complex and fragile process accompanied by hemostasis inflammation proliferation and remodeling Any abnormality in each process may lead to delayed wound healing and or conspicuous scars In addition direct contact with the outside environment and stimulation by various external factors such as ultraviolet radiation microorganisms etc will cause a series of inflammatory reactions leading to skin cell aging affecting stem cell activity and wound healing Therefore it is necessary to have a deep understanding of the mechanisms of skin injuries and to explore effective prevention and therapeutic strategies to facilitate the process of skin repair Surgery v.7, 1921 William Williams Keen, 1921 Surgery: Supplementary volume.
