Shocking Representation Adam Lowenstein, 2005-11-09 In this imaginative new work Adam Lowenstein explores the ways in which a group of groundbreaking horror films engaged the haunting social conflicts left in the wake of World War II Hiroshima and the Vietnam War Lowenstein centers Shocking Representation around readings of films by Georges Franju Michael Powell Shindo Kaneto Wes Craven and David Cronenberg He shows that through allegorical representations these directors confronted and challenged comforting historical narratives and notions of national identity intended to soothe public anxieties in the aftermath of national traumas Borrowing elements from art cinema and the horror genre these directors disrupted the boundaries between high and low cinema Lowenstein contrasts their works often dismissed by contemporary critics with the films of acclaimed New Wave directors in France England Japan and the United States He argues that these New Wave films which were embraced as both art and national cinema often upheld conventional ideas of nation history gender and class questioned by the horror films By fusing film studies with the emerging field of trauma studies and drawing on the work of Walter Benjamin Adam Lowenstein offers a bold reassessment of the modern horror film and the idea of national cinema

Projections of Memory Richard I. Suchenski, 2016 Although the length of commercially distributed feature films has remained relatively standardized since the mid 1910s there is also a small but substantial body of ambitious works that utilize their extraordinarily long durations to give cinema the character of a religious ritual While their methods and overall goals vary considerably these works actively participate in a modernist exploration of the relationship between form and content often taking their innovations to what seem to be their limits simultaneously establishing and exhausting their own paradigms Their makers strove to create cinematic cathedrals monuments to the imagination that promise profound transformations of vision selfhood and experience Unique both in their formal adventurousness and their modes of presentation works like Napoléon on Abel Gance 1927 Eniaios Gregory Markopoulos 1947 1992 Out 1 Jacques Rivette 1971 and Histoire(s) du cinéma Jean Luc Godard 1988 1998 utilize their temporal scale to create a particularly intense form of spectatorial engagement that is wedded to or related to a larger utopian program Synthesizing their disparate influences into magisterial edifices these projects treat cinema as a space in which the most ancient forms can be made radically new

Les Editions Rencontre François Vallotton, 2004 Postface par Pierre Balthasar de Muralt p 175 181 A History of the French New Wave Cinema Richard Neupert, 2007-04-20 The French New Wave cinema is arguably the most fascinating of all film movements famous for its exuberance daring and avant garde techniques A History of the French New Wave Cinema offers a fresh look at the social economic and aesthetic mechanisms that shaped French film in the 1950s as well as detailed studies of the most important New Wave movies of the late 1950s and early 1960s Richard Neupert first tracks the precursors to New Wave cinema showing how they provided blueprints for those who would follow He then demonstrates that it was a core group of critics turned directors from the magazine Cahiers du Cinéma especially François Truffaut Claude Chabrol and Jean Luc Godard who really revealed that filmmaking was changing forever Later their cohorts Eric Rohmer Jacques Rivette Jacques Doniol Valcroze and Pierre Kast continued in their own unique ways to expand the range and depth of the New Wave In an exciting new chapter Neupert explores the subgroup of French film practice known as the Left Bank Group which included directors such as Alain Resnais and Agnès Varda With the addition of this new material and an updated conclusion Neupert presents a comprehensive review of the stunning variety of movies to come out of this important era in filmmaking Catalog of the Library of the Museum of Modern Art: Rej Museum of Modern Art (New York, N.Y.). Le court métrage français de 1945 à 1968 (2) Antony Fiant, Roxane Hamery, 2008

Le court métrage occupe une place particulière dans le cinéma français, assurant non seulement le renouvellement des générations mais favorisant aussi les expérimentations formelles les plus diverses. Au lendemain de la Seconde Guerre mondiale, on lui doit un intérêt tout particulier pour le documentaire, genre très peu usité à l'époque dans le cadre du long métrage. Certes, la logique est encore souvent celle de la commande, l'initiative de groupes industriels ou d'institutions ministérielles, par exemple, mais cette attention nouvelle porte et incite un profond renouvellement des tendances dramaturgiques et esthétiques. Minoritaire par le nombre de films réalisés, la fiction offre aux réalisateurs un second terrain d'expérimentation qui trouve son expression dans le court métrage ou le film sketches, notamment par le biais de la comédie de l'animation et de l'adaptation littéraire. Ce volume entend non seulement explorer la production des documentaires et des fictions produits dans le court métrage entre 1945 et 1968, mais aussi montrer que la vivacité de la forme brève sa modernité même passe justement par sa capacité à manier des frontières traditionnellement dressées entre documentaire et fiction, d'un film à l'autre, mais aussi au sein d'un même film. Les tudes rassemblées dans cet ouvrage s'intéressent des cinéastes parmi les plus importants de l'histoire du court métrage français : Jean Cocteau, Claude Chabrol, Jacques Demy, Robert Enrico, Pierre Taïx, Jean-Luc Godard, Paul Grimault, Pierre Kast, Roger Leenhardt, Eli Lotar, Jean Painlevé, Paul Paviot, Jean Daniel Pollet, Pierre et Jacques Prévert, Jean Rouch, Ric Rohmer, Georges Rouquier, Jacques Tati, etc.
