Pin 2 (+9 Vdc) need only be connected if the microphone element in use is an electret condenser requiring a polarizing voltage.

Keeping chassis ground and mic signal ground separated are done to reduce the possibility of introducing stray hum or RFI into the transmit audio signal.

Note we recommend that the case of the microphone also be tied to chassis ground on the transceiver via pin 5. This is to help assure stray RF does not have a path to be coupled into transmit audio.

Some microphones are not wired to separate microphone signal ground from chassis ground, and the two are tied together. We recommend separate pins for use for mic negative signal and chassis ground as shown in Figure 2-3.

(8) TUNE

The TUNE button, when pressed, will transmit a CW carrier at approximately 20 watts output power to allow either the internal automatic antenna tuner to tune (if installed) or for user adjustment of an external antenna tuner or linear amplifier.

It may be desirable to have keydown CW carrier output at the power output level set by using the PWR control (button 9). To do so, press the PWR button immediately after pushing the TUNE button. Power output will move from the low power setting to whatever level the PWR control has been set at with the MULTI knob. Repeat operation will require pushing TUNE then PWR again for the higher output value.

(9) PWR

This button is used for setting RF power output on OMNI-VII. Press the PWR button and turn the MULTI knob to adjust value from 1 to 100. The value set from 1 to 100 will roughly correspond to power output in watts but this will vary a few watts depending on band and load impedance. ALC control is present from 5 to 100 watts output - no ALC control below 5 watts although power output can be dropped below that level.

The PWR button also interacts with the TUNE button (8) for key down power output for tuning an antenna tuner or linear amplifier. See the description of TUNE immediately preceding this section.

(10) V>M and (11) M>V

The V>M and M>V buttons are used to store and retrieve frequencies into and out of the memory system.

To store a frequency from VFO A to a memory location, press V>M. At the top of the screen SAVE TO MEMORY and a memory number will appear at the top of the screen. Turn the MULTI knob to scroll through the available memory locations. There are 100 available memories. When your desired memory number has been selected, press V>M again to save.
