Lemon Aid guides steer the confused and anxious buyer through the economic meltdown, unlike any other car and truck books on the market. U.S. automakers are suddenly awash in profits and South Koreans and Europeans have gained market shares while Honda, Nissan and Toyota have curtailed production following the 2011 tsunami in Japan. Shortages of Japanese new cars and supplier disruptions will likely push used car prices through the roof well into 2012, so what should a savvy buyer do? The all-new Lemon Aid Used Cars and Trucks 2012-2013 has the answers, including more vehicles rated with some redesigned models that don't perform as well as previous iterations, downrated more roof crash worthiness ratings along with an expanded cross-border shopping guide. A revised summary of safety and performance-related defects that are likely to affect rated models. More helpful websites listed in the appendix as well as an updated list of the best and worst beaters on the market. More secret warranties taken from automaker internal service bulletins and memos than ever. Kiplinger's Personal Finance, 2004-05. Various combinations of commercially available technologies could greatly reduce fuel consumption in passenger cars, sport utility vehicles, minivans and other light-duty vehicles without compromising vehicle performance or safety. Assessment of Technologies for Improving Light-Duty Vehicle Fuel Economy estimates the potential fuel savings and costs to consumers of available technology combinations for three types of engines: spark ignition gasoline, compression ignition diesel and hybrid. According to its estimates, adopting the full combination of improved technologies in medium and large cars and pickup trucks with spark ignition engines could reduce fuel consumption by 29 percent at an additional cost of $2,200 to the consumer. Replacing spark ignition engines with diesel engines and components would yield fuel savings of about 37 percent at an added cost of approximately $5,900 per vehicle and replacing spark ignition engines with hybrid engines and components would reduce fuel consumption by 43 percent at an increase of $6,000 per vehicle. The book focuses on fuel consumption, the amount of fuel consumed in a given driving distance, because energy savings are directly related to the amount of fuel used. In contrast, fuel economy measures how far a vehicle will travel with a gallon of fuel. Because fuel consumption data indicate money saved on fuel purchases and reductions in carbon dioxide emissions, the book finds that vehicle stickers should provide consumers with fuel consumption data in addition to fuel economy information. 2002 Cars Consumer Guide, Consumer Guide Editors, 2002-02.
